Reducing Terrorism Through Situational Crime Prevention

edited by

Joshua D. Freilich & Graeme R. Newman
Introduction
Joshua D. Freilich and Graeme R. Newman

Spatio-Temporal Modeling of Insurgency in Iraq
Shane D. Johnson and Alex Braithwaite

Reducing Terrorist Opportunities: A Framework for Foreign Policy
Graeme R. Newman

Twenty-Eight Articles: Fundamentals of Company-Level Counterinsurgency
David Kilkullen

EVIL DONE
Rachel Boba

Bioterrorism: A Situational Crime Prevention Approach
William Clark

Application of Situational Crime Prevention to Terrorist Hostage Taking and Kidnapping: A Case Study of 23 Korean Hostages in Afghanistan
Minwoo Yun

continued
Preventing Deadly Encounters between Law Enforcement and American Far-Rightists
Joshua D. Freilich and Steven M. Chermak

Situational Crime Prevention and Non-Violent Terrorism: A “Soft” Approach against Ideologically Motivated Tax Refusal
Roberta Belli and Joshua D. Freilich

Exploring Parallels between Situational Crime Prevention and Non-Criminological Theories for Reducing Terrorist Risk
Joseph Clare and Frank Morgan

How to Lose the War on Terror: Lessons of a 30 Year War in Northern Ireland
Nick Ross