MEMORIES OF THE MAGHREB

TRANSGNATIONAL IDENTITIES IN SPANISH CULTURAL PRODUCTION

ADOLFO CAMPOY-CUBILLO
Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1

Part I  The Historical Novel and the Maghreb

1 Colonial Memories in the Mass Market 17

2 From Imperial to National Identity: Revisiting the Realist Tradition in Spanish Literature 25

3 Haunted by Colonial Dreams: Contemporary Fiction on the Spanish Colonization of the Maghreb 35

Part II  Diasporic Narratives: From the Maghreb to Sepharad

4 Sephardic Identity and the Enlightenment's European Project 77

5 A Plurilingual Memory: Representations of the Sephardim in Contemporary Spanish Literature 83

6 Antonio Muñoz Molina's Sefarad: A Monolingual Memory 103

7 Iberianism and Its Discontents 117

8 Daoudi's El diablo de Yudis: Identity as Performance 129

9 Necessary Fictions: Building New Imagined Communities in Contemporary Catalonia 137
Part III  Hispano-Saharawi Fraternity: Nomadic Desire and Imperial Nostalgia

10 Western Sahara: The Last and Lasting Colonial Conflict in Africa 153
11 Rhizome and Colonial Desire: Spain in Western Sahara 159
12 Spanish Cultural Production on Western Sahara 167
Conclusion 185

Notes 193

Bibliography 199

Index 215