Regional Dynamics in Central and Eastern Europe

New Approaches to Decentralization

Edited by
Francesco Palermo and Sara Parolari

LEIDEN • BOSTON
2013
CONTENTS

List of Contributors ........................................................................................................ vii

Introduction ...................................................................................................................... 1
  Sara Parolari

PART ONE

FRAMEWORK

I. Central and Eastern Europe Regional Reforms: From Dismantling a Soviet Model to Europeanizing a National One ........................................................................ 7
  Anatoliy Kruglashov

II. EU Regional Policy and the Process of Institution-Building in Central and Eastern European Countries ................................................................. 35
  Ekaterina Domorenok

III. Decentralization and Local Development: Antecedents, Challenges and Current Organizational Forms ...................................................... 59
  Gert Guri and Bruno Dallago

IV. The English Prototype. Non-Political and Non-Administrative Decentralization as a Model for Central and Eastern European Countries? ......................................................... 85
  Sara Parolari

PART TWO

CASE STUDIES

V. Decentralization and Regional Development in Romania. An Unfinished Reform in Search of a "European" Model .............................................. 105
  Marius Suciu
VI. The Recentralization of Economic Development in Hungary ................................................................. 147
   Zoltán Pogátsa

VII. Securing Growth and Cohesion in Europeanized Conditions. The Role of Regional Development Bodies in Poland .......... 175
    Krzysztof Szczerski

VIII. Regionalization and Regional Development in Serbia .......... 201
      Chiara Guglielmetti and Sonja Avlijaš

Concluding Remarks. New Regionalism in Central, Eastern and South-Eastern Europe. Traditional Models and Beyond .......... 241
      Francesco Palermo

Index List ................................................................................................................................. 255