Postcolonial Encounters in International Relations

The politics of transgression in the Maghreb

SUB Hamburg

A/601736

Alina Sajed
Contents

Acknowledgements xii

1 IR and the world: the politics of encounters 1
   - The politics of encounters and translocal webs of relations 4
   - Literary narratives in the Franco-Maghrebian encounter 8
   - Meeting the Franco-Maghrebian intellectual 12
   - Memory and authenticity 15

2 The post always rings twice? The Algerian War, post-structuralism and the postcolonial in IR theory 20
   - Rethinking theory, nativizing discipline(s): disturbing the margins in Robert Young's White Mythologies and Postcolonialism – An Historical Introduction 23
   - Colonial desire and the politics of Algerian intractability: Derrida, Cixous and Lyotard 25
   - The (im)possibilities of theoretical miscegenation: what is at stake in associating post-structuralism and postcoloniality in International Relations? 29

3 Exilé and immigré: the politics of exile and diaspora in the Franco-Maghrebian borderland 41
   - The politics of language in the Franco-Maghrebian borderland 44
   - Flirting with hybridity and transnational citizenship 48
   - The diasporic intellectual and her others 52

4 Where have all the natives gone? Spectral presences and authenticity in photographic and literary narratives 62
   - Where have all the natives gone? The (in)authentic native woman in the colonial harem 64
   - The 'native' as spectral presence in photography and literary narratives 69
Contents

5 The Franco-Maghrebian borderland as cinematic space: memory, trauma and authenticity 86
   * Tropes of memory 89
   * Locating the new Europe and the Franco-Maghrebian borderland: the colonial past in the postcolonial present 106
   * The politics of authenticity 111

6 Fanon, Camus and colonial difference: possibilities and limits for decolonial thought and action 121
   * Politics in exile: between strangeness and alienation 125
   * Irreconcilable visions of (post)colonial futures: Camus, Fanon and the Algerian War 134
   * Colonial difference and the decolonial promise: possibilities and limits 143

7 Postcolonial strangers in a cosmopolitan world: postcolonial hybridity and beyond 155
   * Migration in International Relations: moving beyond or around the state? 158
   * Postcolonial strangers: Maghrébins, immigrés and beurs – who is the real indigène? 162

8 Diasporic identifications, translocal webs and International Relations 175
   * IR and the problem of colonial difference 177
   * The Maghreb: 'the difference that cannot be told'? 186
   * On the lures of diaspora and transnationalism 196

   Transgressing International Relations: concluding remarks 204

Bibliography 207
Index 225