Communicative Cities in the 21st Century

The Urban Communication Reader III

Matthew D. Matsaganis, Victoria J. Gallagher, and Susan J. Drucker, Editors
Contents

Acknowledgments ......................................................... ix

1 Introduction: The Making of Communicative Cities in the 21st Century ........ 1
Matthew D. Matsaganis and Victoria J. Gallagher

PART I: The Performances of Urban Life

2 Defining a “Livable City”: Parks, Suburbanization, and the Shaping of Community Identity and Ecological Responsibility ................... 13
Margaret R. LaWare

3 Communicative Spaces and Rhetorical Enactments: How and Why Urban Parks Enhance (or Fail to Enhance) Civic Life ................... 35
Victoria J. Gallagher, Kenneth Zagacki, and Kelly Norris Martin

4 Understanding Urban Foodways and Communicative Cities: A Taste of Hong Kong’s Yumcha Culture as Urban Communication .......... 53
Casey Man Kong Lum

PART II: The Politics and Technologies of Urban Life

5 Unconventional Urban Communication Success: Envisioning and Engendering a Revitalized New Cassel ................. 79
Mary Ann Allison

6 Auditing Communication Systems to Help Urban Policy Makers ................. 99
Leo W. Jeffres, Kimberly Neuendorf, Guowei Jian, and Kimberly S. Cooper

7 Containing RFID: Questioning Communication, Technology, and Culture .......... 137
John Monberg
PART III The Fantasies and Facades of Urban Life

8 Chinese Tourists, Themed Casinos, and Consumer Pedagogy in Macao .......... 157
    Tim Simpson

9 Locating Nihonmachi: Urban Erasure, Memory, and Visibility
    in Japantown, USA .................................................. 175
    Janis L. Edwards

10 Skins, Tattoos, and Architectural Facades:
    Or What You See Is What You Get—for the Moment .......................... 199
    Gary Gumpert and Susan J. Drucker

11 Origami Urbanism amid the Flat City: An Omnitopian Analysis of Commercials Depicting Mutability in Urban Life ............................. 215
    Andrew F. Wood

Afterword: Cross-Currents Inside and Outside the Communicative City ........... 235
    Gene Burd

About the Contributors .................................................... 245

Index ................................................................................. 251