RUSSIAN FOREIGN POLICY

INTERESTS, VECTORS, AND SECTORS

SUB Hamburg

Nikolas K. Gvosdev
U.S. Naval War College

Christopher Marsh
U.S. Army School of Advanced Military Studies

SAGE • CPPRESS
 Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
 Singapore | Washington DC
CONTENTS

List of Tables, Figures, and Map ix
Principal Vectors in Russian Foreign Policy xi
Preface xiii
Acknowledgments xv
About the Authors xvii

Introduction 1
The Challenges Facing Russia 4
Notes 10

Chapter 1 The Historical Legacy for Contemporary Russian Foreign Policy 13
The Soviet Legacy 19
Notes 24

Chapter 2 Vectors and Sectors: The Russian Foreign Policy Mechanism 27
The Constitutional Structure: President and Prime Minister 27
Searching for a Role: The Legislature 30
The Position of the Foreign Ministry: One Actor Among Many 32
The Regional Governments 38
The State Companies and Private Business 39
The Nongovernmental Organizations 47
Russian National Security Decision Making 49
The Principal Vectors 54
Notes 59

Chapter 3 The United States: The Main Enemy or Strategic Partner? 67
Legacy of the Cold War 70
Gorbachev: The Search for Condominium 77
The Yeltsin Era and "Tainted Transactions" 79
Chapter 7  Europe: Russia’s “Traditional Orientation”  239
  Russia and the European Union Since the Soviet Collapse  245
  The Russo-German Relationship  253
  The Russian Relationship With France  260
  The Overlooked Partnership: Italy and Russia  266
  The Bulldog and the Bear: Russia and Great Britain  269
  Other Relationships  273
  The Arctic Dimension  276
  Concluding Thoughts  279
  Notes  279

Chapter 8  The Near-Eastern Vector  293
  Russia–Turkey: The Unexpected Partnership  297
  Israel: “Practically a Russian-Speaking Country”?  305
  Russia–Saudi Arabia: The Start of a Rapprochement?  308
  Traditional Arab Partners  311
  Moscow’s Traditional Ally Syria  315
  The Transformation of Russian–Iranian Relations  317
  Overall Conclusion  323
  Notes  324

Chapter 9  Call Across the Himalayas: The South Asia Vector  335
  The Immediate Post-Soviet Policy  338
  The Failed Rapprochement With Pakistan?  341
  The Model Partnership: India  344
  The Russia–India–China Troika  354
  Drivers of the Indo-Russian Entente  356
  Notes  357

Chapter 10  Africa and Latin America: The Southern Vector  365
  The Return to Africa  369
  Latin America Beckons  376
  Building the BRICS  386
  Notes  390

Chapter 11  Epilogue  401
  Notes  404

Index  407