Reassembling International Theory: Assemblage Thinking and International Relations

Edited by

Michele Acuto
Senior Lecturer in Global Networks and Diplomacy, University College London, UK

and

Simon Curtis
Lecturer in International Politics, University of East Anglia, UK
Contents

Notes on Contributors vii

1 Assemblage Thinking and International Relations 1
Michele Acuto and Simon Curtis

Part 1 Theories of Assemblage

2 The Carpenter and the Bricoleur 17
A Conversation with Saskia Sassen and Aihwa Ong

3 Tracing Global Assemblages, Bringing Bourdieu to the Field 25
A Conversation with Rita Abrahmsen and Michael Williams

4 Assemblages and the Conduct of Inquiry 32
A Conversation with Stephen J. Collier

Part 2 Ontologies of Assemblage

5 Cognitive Assemblages and the Production of Knowledge 40
Nick Srnicek

6 Global Assemblages and Structural Models of International Relations 48
Olaf Corry
Part 3  Methods of Assemblage

7  Thinking Assemblages Methodologically: Some Rules of Thumb
   Christian Bueger  58

8  Energizing the International
   Debbie Lisle  67

9  Visual Assemblages: From Causality to Conditions of Possibility
   Roland Bleiker  75

Part 4  Materialities of Assemblage

10 Security in Action: How John Dewey Can Help Us Follow the Production of Security Assemblages
   Peer Schouten  83

11 Welcome to the Machine: Rethinking Technology through Assemblage Theory
   Antoine Bousquet  91

Part 5  Politics of Assemblage

12 The Onto-Politics of Assemblage
   David Chandler  99

13 Agencement and Traces: A Politics of Ephemeral Theorizing
   Xavier Guillaume  106

14 The Assemblage and the Intellectual-as-Hero
   Mark B. Salter  113

Conclusions: Assemblage Theory and Its Future
   Graham Harman  118

References  131

Index  142

DOI: 10.1057/9781137383969