Festival Culture in the World of the Spanish Habsburgs

Edited by Fernando Checa Cremades and Laura Fernández-González

ASHGATE
Contents

List of illustrations vii
Notes on contributors xiii
Acknowledgments xvii
Foreword by Teófilo F. Ruiz xix

Introduction 1

PART I  HABSBURG VISUAL CULTURE: TAPESTRIES, PAINTINGS AND FESTIVALS AT COURT

1  The language of triumph: Images of war and victory in two early modern tapestry series 19
Fernando Checa Cremades

2  The ceremonial decoration of the Alcázar in Madrid: The use of tapestries and paintings in Habsburg festivities 41
Miguel A. Zalama Rodríguez

PART II  ENTRIES, SOJOURNS AND THE WIDER TRIUMPHAL CULTURE IN THE HABSBURG WORLD

3  Festival interventions in the urban space of Habsburg Madrid 69
David Sánchez Cano

4  Negotiating terms: King Philip I of Portugal and the ceremonial entry of 1581 into Lisbon 87
Laura Fernández-González
5 The loose parts of an entry: The flop of Cremona in 1598
Maria Ines Aliverti

6 Margaret of Austria’s travel in the state of Milan between 1598 and 1599
Franca Varallo

7 Routes and triumphs of Habsburg power in Colonial America
Victor Minguez Cornelles

PART III RELIGION AND EMPIRE: PROCESSIONS, FUNERALS AND THE SPANISH MONARCHY

8 The ceremonial King: Kingly rituals and Imperial power in seventeenth-century New World cities
Alejandra B. Osorio

9 Festivals and Hagiography in the Spanish Court (1565–1615)
Juan Luis González García

10 Corpus Christi in Spanish Palermo: Two Baroque Apparati by Giacomo Amato for the Duke of Uceda (Viceroy of Sicily, 1687–1696)
Sabina de Cavi

PART IV MUSIC AND ART IN THE SERVICE OF THE SPANISH HABSBURGS

11 Music in the service of Spanish Hegemony in early modern Rome
Noel O’Regan

12 Royal festivals in mid-seventeenth century Naples: The image of the Spanish Habsburg Kings in the work of Italian and Spanish artists
Ida Mauro

Bibliography

Index