STRUCTURAL/PROCESS MODELS OF COMPLEX HUMAN BEHAVIOR

edited by

JOSEPH M. SCANDURA
professor in structural learning
and educational design
University of Pennsylvania, USA

and

CHARLES J. BRAINERD
professor of psychology
The University of Alberta, Canada

SIJTHOFF & NOORDHOFF 1978
Alphen aan den Rijn – The Netherlands
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface
Random Thoughts on a Structured Conference

Chapter 1
General Introduction -- Joseph M. Scandura 1
Introductory Statement on Structural Learning -- Joseph M. Scandura 5

Chapter 2
A Structural Learning Theory -- Joseph M. Scandura 13
Glossary -- Joseph M. Scandura 127
Discussion of Selected Issues Relevant to Structural Learning -- Joseph M. Scandura 139
Commentary: Who is the Learner in the Structural Learning Theory? (A Reaction from the Cognitive Standpoint) -- Wolfram Reulecke 167
Reaction: Comments on "Who is the Learner in the Structural Learning Theory" -- Joseph M. Scandura 171

Chapter 3
Quantity and Quality in Knowledge -- Thomas K. Landauer 177
Commentary: Comments on Landauer's "Quantity and Quality in Knowledge" -- Kellogg Wilson 207

Chapter 4
Metacognitive Development -- John H. Flavell 213
Commentary: On Applying Metacognition to Metacognition about Metacognition: A Redundant Reaction? -- Werner Feibel 247

Chapter 5
Knowledge, Innovation and "Learning to Learn" -- Gordon Pask 259
Chapter 6
Group Theory and Discrimination Shift Behavior -- Charles J. Brainerd 351

Chapter 7
Rule Learning as a Methodological Principle -- Wilhelm Kempf 391
Commentary: Limitations on the Use of Rules in Describing Behavior -- Brian MacWhinney 405

Chapter 8
The Relationship Between Factors and Psychological Processes -- J. R. Royce, G. P. Kearsley, and W. Klare 409

Chapter 9
On Knowing and Cognition -- Robert Kalechofsky 429
Some Strengths of Production System Architectures -- John McDermott 459
Varieties of Learning in Grammatical Acquisition -- Larry H. Reeker 465

Chapter 10
Information Processing Models of Cognitive Development -- David Klahr 479
Commentary: Klahr and the Classroom: Intriguing Implications and Intrinsic Limitations -- Jill H. Larkin 519

Chapter 11
Dual Coding: Theoretical Issues and Empirical Evidence -- Allan Paivio 527
Commentary: Developmental Aspects of the Dual Coding Hypothesis -- Brian MacWhinney 551

Chapter 12
Some Problems in Algo-Heuristic Theory of Thinking, Learning and Instruction -- L. Landa 555

Chapter 13
Qualitative Sources of Individual Differences in Complex Problem Solving -- Earl Hunt 573
Commentary: Individual Differences in Problem Solving: General Heuristics or Specific Plans -- Stephen K. Reed 603
Reaction: Appendix--Hunt's Reply 609