Technical Papers

Pearsall (Aptian Cretaceous) Subsurface to Outcrop Sequence Stratigraphy, Central Texas
David L. Amsbury ........................................ 1

Enhanced Subsalt Exploration Utilizing the Basal Salt Shear Model
Richie D. Baud and John L. Haglund .......................... 9

The Influence of Paleotopography, Sea Level Fluctuation, and Carbonate Productivity on Deposition of the Smackover and Buckner Formations, Appleton Field, Escambia County, Alabama
D. Joe Benson, Lisa M. Pultz, and D. D. Bruner ........................................ 15
The Formation and Behavior of “Vapor Lock” Pressure Seals and Associated Hydrocarbon Accumulations in Geologically Young Basins
W.M. Benzing, G.M. Shook, and S.D. Leroy .......................................................... 25

Water Saturation in a Wilcox Shaly Reservoir Sandstone, Fordoche Field, Point Coupee Parish Louisiana
Charles R. Berg and Robert R. Berg ....................................................................... 41

Depositional Facies and Environments of the Lower Mineral Wells Formation, Pennsylvanian Strawn Group, North Central Texas
Susan E. Bradshaw and Jim Mazzullo .................................................................. 47

Local Foraminiferal Faunas: The Key to Enhanced Stratigraphic Resolution of Expanded Cenozoic Sections in the Gulf Coast Basin
Sylvester Q. Breard, Arden D. Callender, and Michael J. Nault ............................ 55

Another Strike at Bee Bluff
John A. Breyer ......................................................................................................... 63

Pressure Solution and Microfracturing in Primary Oil Migration, Upper Cretaceous Austin Chalk, Texas Gulf Coast
Jitesh Chanchani, Robert R. Berg and Chung-I Lee ................................................ 71

Austin Chalk (Uppermost Santonian) Discontinuity Surface, North-Central Texas
William C. Dawson and Donald F. Reaser ............................................................. 79

Bob West and Lopeno Fields: Structure and Stratigraphy of Two Significant Upper Wilcox Fields in South Texas
Richard W. Debus .................................................................................................. 87

An Examination of Organic/Carbonate-Bound Metals in Bottom Sediments of Bayou Trepagnier, Louisiana
Timothy J. Doré, Alan M. Bailey, John W. McCoy, and Glenn W. Johnson ......... 109

Stable-Isotopic Composition of a Late Eocene Archaeocete Whale, Basilosaurus cetoides, from Wayne County, Mississippi
Edwin W. Emmer and Dean A. Dunn ..................................................................... 117

Anomalously High $^{226}$Ra in Fluids Advecting to the Sea Floor: A New Radioactive Source in the Gulf of Mexico.
Baoshun Fu, Paul Aharon, D.L. Van Gent and L.M. Scott ................................. 125

Mollusca and Benthic Foraminifera of the Pensacola Bay and Perdido Bay Estuarine Systems, Florida and Alabama
Tanwi Gangopadhyay, Laurie C. Anderson, Megan H. Jones, and Randolph A. McBride .............................. 133

Comparative Palynology of Clastics and Lignites from the Manning Formation, Jackson Group, Upper Eocene, Grimes Co., TX
Judith A. Gennett .................................................................................................... 149

Composition and Provenance of Volcanic Glass in Late Eocene Manning Formation, East-Central Texas
Renald N. Guillemette and Thomas E. Yancey ...................................................... 159

The Tuscaloosa Formation Revisited
Paula L. Hansley .................................................................................................... 167
