• Motz: Preface 5
• Motz: Opening Chairman 7
• Dean: Ferrous slags in the UK – The Big Picture 19
• Yuan, Lana: The use and status of slags in Brazil 31
• Niemelä, Kauppi: Formation, characteristics and use of ferrochromium slags 39
• Rex: The use of BF, converter and ladle slags in European agriculture – benefits or risks? 51
• Kujala: Use of industrial co-products in civil engineering 63
• Tanskanen, Makkonen: Applied mineralogy and petrology – examples of useful methods for slag composition and property design 71
• Tikkakoski, et al.: Geotechnical properties of blast furnace slag and LD-steel slag mixtures for road construction 83
• Mäkikyrö: GGBS as a binder in mix and deep stabilisation 99
• Jones: The use of steel slag aggregate for stone column ground stabilisation 109
• Robinson, et al.: Use of basic oxygen steel slag and limestone quarry dust for colliery spoil remediation – a pilot case study 121
• Poh, et al.: The influence of basic oxygen steel slag (BOS) on the sulphate resistance of lime stabilized kaolinite 133
Opening Chairman

- da Silveira, et al.: ACERITA – Steel slag with reduced expansion potential 145
- Lang: Freeze-thaw resistance of blastfurnace cements – Laboratory test and long-term experiences 159
- Ehrenberg: Grindability of granulated blastfurnace slag 171
- Deneele, et al.: Control of basic oxygen steel slag swelling by mixing with inert material 187
- Roininen, et al.: Quality control for stainless steel slag products – Especially the case of chromium leaching 199
- Haimi: Slag; product or waste – the present situation 211
- Bialucha: New regulations in the field of environmental affairs 221
- M. G. da Silva, et al.: Ferrous slags in Brazil: Production, use and environmental aspects 233
- Tossavainen, et al.: Stability of modified steel slags 247
- Lind: Sorption of phosphorus and heavy metals on blast furnace slag 257
- Bowden, et al.: The sustainable use of basic oxygen steel slag (BOS) to treat contaminated waters 267
