Architectural Theory and Practice, and the Question of Phenomenology
(The Contribution of Tadao Ando to the Phenomenological Discourse)

Von der Fakultät Architektur, Bauingenieurwesen und Stadtplanung der Brandenburgischen Technischen Universität Cottbus zur Erlangung des akademischen Grades eines Doktor-Ingenieurs genehmigte Dissertation vorgelegt von

Mohammadreza Shirazi
aus Tabriz, Iran

Gutachter: Prof. Dr. Eduard Führ
Gutachter: Prof. Dr. Karsten Harries
Gutachter: Gastprofessor. Dr. Riklef Rambow

Tag der Verteidigung: 02. Juni 2009
Architectural Theory and Practice, and the Question of Phenomenology
(The Contribution of Tadao Ando to the Phenomenological Discourse)

Introduction: The problem of phenomenology 1
The structure of inquiry 6

I. The Question

1. The question of phenomenology in philosophy 11
   1-1 Introduction 11
   1-2 The origin of the term ‘phenomenology’ 12
   1-3 Phenomenology in Husserl 13
       1-3-1 To the things themselves 13
       1-3-2 Phenomenology as a presuppositionless science 14
       1-3-3 Suspension (reduction) 14
       1-3-4 Physical body and living body 15
       1-3-5 Life-world 16
       1-3-6 Horizon and background 17
   1-4 Phenomenology in Martin Heidegger 18
       1-4-1 Phenomenology as letting to be seen 18
       1-4-2 The question of Being 20
       1-4-3 Da-sein and Being-in-the-world 21
       1-4-4 Being-in and dwelling 21
       1-4-5 Against traditional opinions of space 22
       1-4-6 Three types of space 23
       1-4-7 Spatiality of Da-sein 26
       1-4-8 The origin of the work of art 26
       1-4-9 Thingly character of the work of art 27
       1-4-10 Work of art and truth 27
       1-4-11 Greek temple, world and setting-into-work of truth 29
       1-4-12 Truth, opening up a world and setting forth of earth 31
       1-4-13 Building and dwelling 34
       1-4-14 The fourfold, thing and dwelling 35
       1-4-15 Bridge as a gathering 35
       1-4-16 The thing as fourfold 36
       1-4-17 Place and space 38
       1-4-18 Building and fourfold 39
1-4-19 Poetically man dwells
1-4-20 Language and fourfold
1-4-21 Bringing-into-the-work of places

1-5 Phenomenology in Merleau-Ponty
1-5-1 Phenomenology of origins
1-5-2 Against the science
1-5-3 Against Cartesianism
1-5-4 World and ‘body image’
1-5-5 Bodily experience, body and movement
1-5-6 Body and space
1-5-7 Perspectival perception
1-5-8 Painting as primordial connection of the body and world
1-5-9 Perception and background

2. The question of phenomenology in architecture
2-1 Introduction
2-2 Phenomenology in Norberg-Schulz
2-2-1 The necessity of phenomenology
2-2-2 ‘Genius loci’, spirit of place
2-2-3 Architecture, setting-into-work of place
2-2-4 Place today, the loss of place
2-2-5 Existential space
2-2-6 Language and architecture, from archetype to figure
2-2-7 The language of architecture
2-2-8 Four modes of dwelling
2-2-9 Two aspects of dwelling, identification and orientation
2-2-10 Monumentality and regionalism
2-2-11 Winter evening, phenomenal concerns
2-2-12 ‘Genius Loci’, phenomenology from without, a critical review

2-3 Phenomenology in Juhani Pallasmaa
2-3-1 Phenomenology as naïve seeing
2-3-2 Supremacy of vision
2-3-3 Towards the architecture of senses
2-3-3-1 Acoustic intimacy
2-3-3-2 The scent of the space
2-3-3-3 The shape of touch
2-3-3-4 The taste of stone
2-3-3-5 An architecture of the senses
2-3-4 Existential experience and the importance of silence
2-3-5 Body and movement: verbal experience
2-3-6 Architecture, Lived space, and cinema
2-3-7 Space and time
2-3-8 Phenomenology of home
2-3-9 Phenomenology of city
2-1-6 Re-narratives and architectural discourse 176
2-1-7 Linear and Nonlinear narrative 178
2-1-8 Conscious and unconscious narratives 180
2-1-9 Narrative, sub-narrative in architecture 181

2-2 Ando's narrative and sub-narratives 183

2-2-1 Introduction 183
2-2-2 Sub-narratives of Tadao Ando's architecture 184
     2-2-2-1 Autonomy and freedom 184
         Independent Ando
         Architecture of discovery
         Illusion of freedom
         Yutori
     2-2-2-2 Geometry, Abstraction and Representation 188
         Geometry
         Abstraction and Representation
     2-2-2-3 Microcosm 194
     2-2-2-4 Modernism and Current Tendencies 197
         Modernism
         Postmodernism
         Deconstruction
     2-2-2-5 Narchitecture (Nature-Architecture) 203
     2-2-2-6 Reality and Virtuality 214
         Computer as a threat for reality
         Loss of the body
     2-2-2-7 Universality and Individuality 218
         Universality and civilization
         Individuality
     2-2-2-8 Influences and Learning 223
         Le Corbusier
         Mies van der Rohe
         Frank Lloyd Wright
         Wagner
         Hans Hollein
         Adolf Loos
         Carlo Scarpa
         Palladio
         Piranesi
     2-2-2-9 Time and Eternity 228
         Time
         Eternity
     2-2-2-10 Tradition and Culture 234
     2-2-2-11 Shintai, spirit and body 246
         Spirit and body
         Shintai
     2-2-2-12 Place and Scenery 251
         Place and its demands
         Regionalism
         Environment
2-2-3 Narrative of space 258
   2-2-3-1 Space and Spatial Prototypes 260
   2-2-3-2 Emptiness 265
2-2-4 Architecture of Collision 266
   2-2-4-1 Different kinds of Collision 274
   2-2-4-2 On Architecture of Collision 277
   Characteristics
   Consequences
2-2-5 Conclusion 279

3. The Architect’s Work 281
   3-1 Narrative analysis 281
      3-1-1 Introduction 281
      3-1-2 ‘Word’ and material 281
      3-1-3 ‘Word’, material, narrative 284
      3-1-4 Narrative analysis 285

   3-2 Narrative analysis of Langen Foundation 288
      3-2-1 General introduction 288
      3-2-2 Ando says 289
      3-2-3 Narrative analysis 291
         3-2-3-1 Geometry, Abstraction and Representation 291
         3-2-3-2 Universality and individuality 298
         3-2-3-3 Time and Eternity 299
         3-2-3-4 Reality and Virtuality 301
         3-2-3-5 Place and Scenery 302
         3-2-3-6 Narchitecture 304
         3-2-3-7 Autonomy and Freedom 307
         3-2-3-8 Shintai, Spirit and Body 308
         3-2-3-9 Tradition and Culture 310
         3-2-3-10 Modernism and Current Tendencies 311
         3-2-3-11 Architecture of collision 312
      3-2-4 Narrative of space? 314

III. Towards an articulate phenomenological interpretation of Architecture 321

1. Phenomenological concerns 321
   1-1 Introduction 321
   1-2 Phenomenological concerns 322

2. Phenomenological concerns in Ando’s theory and reflections 329
   2-1 Introduction 329
   2-2 Shintai, union of subject and object 329
   2-3 Critical action 330
2-4 Culture against universalization 331
2-5 Regional and universal 332
2-6 Critical Regionalism 333
2-7 Architecture as a closed domain 334
2-8 Demand of the land 335
2-9 Priority of place 336
2-10 Genius Loci 337
2-11 Thing and object 338
2-12 Architecturalized nature 338
2-13 Multi-sensory architecture 339
2-14 Tectonic rather than scenographic 341
2-15 Body as shintai 343
2-16 Corporeality and body language 344
2-17 Body and movement 345
2-18 Lived experience 348
2-19 Fourfold of building 348
2-20 Memory 349
2-21 Phenomenal zones 350
2-22 Conclusion 354

3. Phenomenological interpretations of Ando, a critical review
3-1 Introduction 359
3-2 Norberg-Schulz's interpretation of Vitra Conference Center 359
3-3 Frampton and Tadao Ando's Critical Modernism 368
  3-3-1 Critical Modernism of Tadao Ando 368
  3-3-2 Tectonics against scenographic 369
  3-3-3 Oriental-occidental confrontation 371
  3-3-4 Corporeal experience in Ando 372
  3-3-5 Light and water 372
  3-3-6 Latitudinal phenomenology 373

4. Phenomenal phenomenology, towards an articulate phenomenological interpretation 374
4-1 General structure of interpretation 374
4-2 Phenomenological interpretation of Langen Foundation Museum 379

Bibliography 423
Illustrations 439