TABLE OF CONTENTS

Student Teacher Use of Technology: A State and National Comparison ........................................... 1
Michael McDonald, Janet Tassell, Western Kentucky University, USA

Incorporating Integrated Curriculum Projects into Methods Courses with HyperStudio ......................... 9
Roger Wagner, Hyperstudio, USA, USA

The Best IRT Logistic Model for a Pre- and Post-Testing System with Previous Tests ........................... 24
Tomoko Fujita, Tokai University, Japan; Shin-ichi Mayekawa, Tokyo Institute of Technology, Japan

Creating Digital Stories with Scratch to Promote Computational Thinking ........................................ 31
Lila Holt, University of Tennessee, USA

Emerging Technologies: Disconnects: K12, Teacher Education and the Computational Sciences ............ 43
Bob Plants, University of Mississippi, USA

Examining Digital Game-based Learning through the Lens of 21st Century Gamers ............................ 45
Kari Richards, Wu Min, Alex Games, Michigan State University, USA

Children's Engineering and Computational Thinking ............................................................................. 53
Joyce Mayln-Smith, ITEST Learning Resource Center at Education Development Center, USA;
Glen Bull, University of Virginia, USA; Steven Moore, Science Approach, USA; Katherine Hayden,
California State University San Marcos, USA; Roger Wagner, Hyperstudio, USA, USA; Monty Jones,
Univ. of Virginia, USA

Computational Thinking in Pre-Service Teacher Education: Integrating CT Module in the Curriculum .......... 62
Ninger Zhou, Xuemei Wu, Aman Yadav, Chris Mayfield, James Lehman, Susanne Hambrusch, Tim Korb,
Purdue University, USA

Using games in classroom: All tutors and no stories make a virtual world a dull game ....................... 64
Mete Akcaoglu, Michigan State University, USA

The Relationship between Five Variables in Online, Televised, and f2f Classes—Finding the Threads .... 70
Tami Al Hazza, Robin Spruce, Old Dominion University, USA

Come the Revolution: Pre-service Teachers’ Access to, Attitudes toward, and Skills with ICT .......... 74
Peter Albion, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Preparing for Doctoral Supervision at a Distance: Lessons from Experience ....................................... 82
Peter Albion, Ronel Erwee, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Necessity of Applying Blended Learning in Higher Education of Iran ................................................... 90
Vahideh Alipour, Islamic Azad University, Iran (Islamic Republic Of); Foroozandeh Ghazi, Islamic Azad
University, science and research branch, Iran (Islamic Republic Of)

Technology-Mediated Learning (TML): Researching the Potential and Challenges of Using Mobile
Devices to Support Learning and Health in Ghana ................................................................................ 101
Kinful Aryee, Ron Hansen, University of Western Ontario, Canada

I Learned More Than I Expected: Creating Communities of Practice to Impact Students’
Understanding of Reform-based Pedagogy ......................................................................................... 108
Mehmet Aydeniz, JoAnn Candy, Kristen Rearden, The University of Tennessee, USA

Facilitating Students’ Critical Thinking in Online Discussion: Requiring Students to Self-code .......... 113
Hua Bai, Northeastern Illinois University, USA

Challenges of Engaging Non-Traditional Students in an On-line Graduate Nursing Program ............. 116
Darlene Baker, Angela Schmidt, Arkansas State University, USA

What Are Teachers’ Experiences of Teaching and Learning of Science Via a Hybrid Course? ............. 123
Nasrin Bakir, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA; Barbara Hug, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, USA

Learning Their Way: Mobile Devices in Education .............................................................................. 127
Jimmy Barnes, Donna Herring, Jacksonville State University, USA

A Global Alliance In Distance Learning: Heightening Awareness of Individuals With Exceptionalities Across Cultures ............................................................................................................ 130
Brenda Barrio, The University of North Texas, Mexico; Amber Ellison, Tandra Tyler-Wood, Pamela Peak,
University of North Texas, USA

Collaborating in Virtual Spaces: GoogleDocs, Group Work, and Online Learning ............................. 133
Twitter: Intellectual Stimulator or Attention Distracter ......................................................... 139
Lorraine Beaudin, Jennifer Deyenberg, University of Lethbridge, Canada

The Role of Online Learning Platforms in Social Equalization .............................................. 148
Adi Beth, Lingueo.com, France

Fostering a Positive Experience in Virtual Teams for Distance Learners ........................... 155
Sharon Borowicz, Benedictine University, USA

Elementary Math Specialist Training with Adobe Connect, A 21st Century Approach to Learning 161
Beth Bos, Texas State University, USA

Technology-Enhanced Field Experiences for Preservice Teachers using Video Conferencing: A Literature Review ................................................................. 168
Aimee Brenner, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, USA

Cross-cultural classroom conversation online: Preparing students for global citizenry .......... 174
Catherine Brooks, CSU, Long Beach, USA

Improving Teachers’ Attitudes Toward Mathematics Teaching: Model-Centered Learning and Open-Source Learning Technology .................................................. 180
Lingguo Bu, Frackson Mumba, Harvey Henson, Mary Wright, Southern Illinois University Carbondale, USA

Lecture Capture System in Teaching and Learning: Strategies and Best Practices ............. 185
Carrie Cao, Virginia Western Community College, USA

Media-rich Social Networks: Open Source Solutions to Media Creation .......................... 187
Jason Caudill, Carson-Newman College, USA

Creating a General Checklist for Graduate Distance Learning Students to Improve On-time Submissions in an Asynchronous Course ......................................................... 195
Terence Cavanaugh, University of North Florida, USA

Student Driven Discussions: An Exploration of Student Engagement ............................... 202
Cynthia Choi, Le Moyne College, USA

Teaching Counseling Microskills and Techniques in Online Courses: Graduate Faculty and Student Perceptions ................................................................. 203
Gina Cicco, St. John’s University, USA

“Combining the Best Educational Theory with Online Practice: Enhancing Student Learning by Integrating Learning Taxonomies in Online Instruction” ................................................. 209
Melinda Clarke, Union University, USA

Promoting Divergent Thinking in a Hybrid Geometry Course: An Examination of Teachers’ Multiple Solution Approaches While Problem Solving in Geometry .................................. 212
Darryl Corey, Nikita Patterson, Kennesaw State University, USA

Design to support distance teacher education communities: A case study of a student-student e-mentoring initiative ................................................................. 218
Nicki Dabner, University of Canterbury, New Zealand

Converging Offerings of Teacher Education in Times of Austerity: Transforming Spaces, Places and Roles ................................................................. 224
Niki Davis, Nicki Dabner, Julie Mackey, Lawrence Walker, Anne-Marie Hunt, Des Breeze, Donna. Morrow, Chris Astall, Jackie Cowan, University of Canterbury, New Zealand

Documenting Collective Activity in an Online Community of Teachers ............................. 230
Chrystal Dean, Appalachian State University, USA; Jason Silverman, Drexel University, USA

Learner and Instructor Satisfaction with E-learning Applications in an Online Teacher Preparation Course ................................................................. 234
Watsatree Diteeyonl, Mia Kim Williams, University of Northern Colorado, USA

The Effectiveness of the Cohort Block Pedagogical Design Model in Asynchronous Online Courses ................................................................................................. 237
Bruce Doney, Mercer University, USA; Karen McFerrin, Northwestern State University, USA; Elaine Artman, Mercer University, USA

Using Open Source Technologies to Increase Teacher Immediacy and Presence ............... 241
Randall Dunn, Amanda Szapkiw, David Holder, Liberty University, USA

Leveraging Open Content and a Systems Approach in Higher Education Online Course Design: Distance Course Design & Consulting Group .................................................. 243
Ariana Eichelberger, Peng-Hsu Eric Huang, University of Hawai‘i at Manoa, College of Education, USA
Teletandem delivery: The educational relevance of the real world application of language and culture in online pedagogic and target tasks .................................................. 245
Jason Brent Ellis, Carla Abreu-Ellis, Ashland University, USA; Blair Bateman, Brigham Young University, USA; Alison Tabor, Georgetown College, USA; Ray Graham, Brigham Young University, USA

New Communication Media Challenges for Supervisors and External Doctoral Students .................................................. 252
Ronel Erwee, Peter Albion, University of Southern Queensland, Australia

Evaluation of Instructor-Enhanced Computer Supported Collaborative Learning .................................................. 260
Irina Falls, Chiuchu (Melody) Chuang, University of North Carolina- Pembroke, USA

The Relationship Between Learning Styles and Student Learning in Online Courses .................................................. 266
Susan Featro, Wilkes University, USA

Analysis of passing rates of online math courses .................................................. 274
Sandra Fital-Akelbek, Mahmud Akelbek, Weber State University, USA

Distance Education in Teacher Education: A National Study .................................................. 280
Laura Frazier, Mount St. Mary University, USA; William Sadera, Towson University, USA

Collaboration Dynamics .................................................. 288
Magdalena Garzon, Marta Libedinsky, Fundacion Evolucion, Argentina

The Effects of “Facilitating” in Online Asynchronous Learning .................................................. 294
Wenge Guo, Yan Wen, Peking University, China; Jing Lei, Syracuse University, USA; Jianjun Hou, Peking University, China

Transforming a traditional school counseling graduate program to distance learning .................................................. 304
Abby Halford, University of Central Arkansas, USA

The Gender Differences in Acquiring Information and Computer Skills among Undergraduate Students in Kuwait .................................................. 313
Samir Hamade, Kuwait University, Kuwait

The Use of E-collaboration in Educational Technology and Development Courses at Saginaw Valley State University .................................................. 321
John Hansen, Elizabeth Hansen, Anne Tapp, Scott James, Saginaw Valley State University, USA

TeleVisions and teleReality - How to understand and use Internet video in education .................................................. 327
Henrik Hansson, Gunnar Wettergren, Department of Computer and Systems Sciences, Stockholm University, Sweden

A Call for Essential Certification and Apprenticeship .................................................. 335
James Hatten, University of Minnesota, USA

Exploring the Characteristics of Pedagogical Lurkers .................................................. 340
Laurie-ann Hellsten, Laureen McIntyre, Michelle Prytula, University of Saskatchewan, Canada

Online Discussions: The Effect of Having Two Deadlines .................................................. 344
Michael Herrick, Meng-Fen Grace Lin, Charlotte Huei-Wen, University of Hawaii, USA

Learning Together to Deliver Effective Online Learning Experiences to Pre-Service Teachers ... 352
Heather Higgins, Laura Staal, University of North Carolina at Pembroke, USA; Ye He, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, USA

Guiding Learner Inquiry to Develop Critical Thinking and Self Reflection in Learners .................................................. 358
Peggy Hines, University of Florida, USA

Virtual Teaching Vignettes .................................................. 360
Carl Hoagland, UMSL-COE, TLC, USA; Shafiek Dinie, University of the Western Cape, South Africa; Margaret Scordias, University of Missouri-St. Louis, USA

A model for building Trust in online learning .................................................. 364
Elaine Hoter, Talpiot College of Education and the Center for Technology and Multiculturalism, Israel; Miri Shonfeld, Kibbutzim college of Education, The Center for Technology and Multiculturalism, Israel; Asmaa Gunayem, Alqasmi Academic College, Israel

Hey that's no way to say goodbye: A Case study on the contribution of salutations to building trust in online virtual groups .................................................. 370
Elaine Hoter, Talpiot College of Education and the Center for Technology and Multiculturalism, Israel

Students’ Voices on Synchronous Instruction in an Online Course .................................................. 378
Hui-Wen Huang, University of Idaho, USA; Linda Taylor, University of Idaho, USA

Experiencing collaborative learning; authentic wiki use with pre-service teachers .................................................. 380
Cowan Jackie, Astall Chris, Walker Lawrence, Mardle Dennis, University of Canterbury, New Zealand

What Are the Benefits and Drawbacks of Utilizing Collaborative On-line Concept Mapping to Support Student Learning? .................................................. 386
David Jackson, Saint Mary's University of Minnesota, USA

Flexible Education Delivery Style for Non-Traditional Pre-Service and In-Service Teachers .................................................. 389
Margie Jones, Taylor Sylvia, Mercer University, USA
Offering Professional Development Opportunities for Faculty on Methods of Developing Critical Thinking in Online Courses ................................................................. 391

Paula Jones, Maryann Kolloff, Fred Kolloff, Eastern Kentucky University, USA

Use of laptops by preservice teachers at the university: Does it help or hinder initial teacher training? ............................................................. 398

Thierry Karsenti, University of Montreal, Canada; Simon Collin, University of Quebec in Montreal, Canada

Assistive Technology for Students with Blindness or Visual Impairments: .................. 403

Dana Kaspi-Tsahor, Tali Heiman, Dovit Olenik-Shemesh, The Open University of Israel, Israel

Using Instant Messaging to Improve Student Engagement in Online Courses ........... 408

Jean Kiekel, Virtual High School, Inc, USA

Exploring Graduate Students’ Formative Exam-Taking Strategies in an Online Course .... 409

Beverly Klecker, Morehead State University, USA; Richard Klecker, University of Kentucky, USA

Group communication in an online environment: Grouping students based on cognitive flexibility 417

Michiko Kobayashi, Southern Utah University, USA

A Practice of Blended Learning for ICT Education on University .......................... 420

Norisuke Kozuki, Tazu Togo, Kyoto Notre Dame University, Japan

Facilitating Effective Online Learning: Findings from a Graduate Mathematics Education Course 423

Heng-Yu Ku, Chatchada Akarasriworn, University of Northern Colorado, USA; Lisa Rice, University of Wyoming, USA; David Glassmeyer, Bernadette Mendoca, University of Northern Colorado, USA; Shandy Hauk, WestEd, USA

Lessons Learned from Teaching in Hybrid Learning Environments for In-Service Mathematics Teachers......................................................... 427

Heng-Yu Ku, Chatchada Akarasriworn, University of Northern Colorado, USA; Lisa Rice, University of Wyoming, USA; David Glassmeyer, Bernadette Mendoca, University of Northern Colorado, USA; Shandy Hauk, WestEd, USA

The New Blend: When students are given the option to choose ...................... 433

Lydia Kyel-Blankson, Illinois State University, USA; Francis Godwyll, Ohio University, USA; Mohamed Nur-Awaleh, Illinois State University, USA; Jared Keengwe, University of North Dakota, USA

Online Peer Evaluation as an Assessment and Collaborative Learning Approach: Perspectives from Two Students ................................ 437

Feng-Qi Lai, Kimberly Snapp, Casey Burk, Indiana State University, USA

Don’t get me lost: Applying professional web design principles to online course design 442

Cheng-Yuan (Corey) Lee, Coastal Carolina University, USA

Online Teacher Education Course Redesign: From Stand-Alone Activities to Content Area Design Teams ....................................................... 443

Kathryn Lee, Beth Bos, Karyn Turnbull, Texas State University-San Marcos, USA

Harnessing Technology for Work-Based Learning ........................................... 449

Beverly Leeds, University of Central Lancashire, UK

Time Perspectives of Online Learning ............................................................. 453

Beverly Leeds, University of Central Lancashire, UK

Course capture technology: Product and processes that engage students ............ 460

H, Steve Leslie, Arkansas State University, USA

Collaborative Teaching for Instructional Improvement ....................................... 462

Youmei Liu, Shawn McComb, Dung Huynh, University of Houston, USA

Integrating Multimedia in Elementary Mathematics to Improve Mathematical Learning ......................................................... 466

Yuliang Liu, Southern Illinois University Edwardsville, USA

Graduate Students’ Preferences in Online Instruction ....................................... 471

Kimberly Livengood, Mary McGlamery, Angelo State University, USA

How to Improve Online Instructor’s Instructional Performance: Suggestions from Learners 476

Taotao Long, Department of Educational Psychology and Counseling, USA

IS THERE A DIFFERENCE IN THE TIME REQUIRED FOR TEACHING ONLINE VS. HYBRID VS. FACE-TO-FACE COURSES: An Empirical Study .................. 484

J. Jeannette Lovern, Eastern Kentucky University, USA

Engaging Students through 21st Century Art Learning: 3D Virtual World Pedagogy .......... 492

Lilly Lu, Northern Illinois University, USA

AT Online: Teaching the Uses of Assistive Technology to Special and General Educators in an Online Setting .............................................. 498

Nancy Luke, Western Carolina University, USA

A discussion about Second Life and virtual reality as a tool in online teacher education .......... 499

Karen Lybeck, Dana Bruhn, Minnesota State University, Mankato, USA; Solen Feyissa, University Of Minnesota, Twin Cities, USA

—iv—
Faculty Use of Asynchronous Discussions in Online Learning Undergraduate and Graduate Courses

Douglas Lynch, University of New England, USA

Literature Circles: Engaging Preservice Teachers in Rural Alaskan Communities

Peggy Marciniec, Alaska Pacific University, USA

Bullying in the Higher Education Classroom: Face-to-face and online

Teresa Mason, Jutta Pegasus, Cathy Taylor, Dennis Gresdo, Park University, USA

Using Moodle Academy To Prepare Technical College Faculty for Online Teaching: An Evaluation Model

Ronald McBride, Northwestern State University of Louisiana, USA; Amber Thompson, Isothermal Community College, USA

Technology Supported Inter-professional Evidenced Based Practice Education

Jacquelyn McClendon, Victoria Mosack, Betty Elder, Mary Koehn, Wichita State University, USA

Channeling the channel: Can iPad meet the needs of today’s M-Learner

Shawn McCombs, Youmei Liu, University of Houston, USA

Beam me in Scotty! Videoconferencing in the 21st Century Classrooms

Lance McConkey, University of Tennessee Knoxville, USA

A Blended Ballet

Shari McCurdy Smith, University of Illinois at Springfield, USA

Using Social Network Analysis and Network Graphs to Analyze Students Online Communication Patterns

Scot McNary, Liyan Song, EDLT/Towson University, USA