Two Spheres

Physical and Strategic Design in Architecture

Leonard R. Bachman
Contents

List of Illustrations vii
Introduction and Acknowledgments x
Foreword by Ken Hall xiv
Prologue xvii

PART ONE: SCOPING COMPLEXITY 1

1 Postindustrial Emergence 3
   Precept One: Three Epochs 3
   Precept Two: The Chasm 10
   Precept Three: The Complex Whole 13
   Precept Four: The Physical and Strategic Spheres of Design 14
   The Shape of Sections to Come 19

2 Scoping Complexity 21
   Complexity: Tangles, Tandems, and Tapestries 21
   Looking Outward: Complexity and Science 28
   Looking Back: Complexity and Postindustrial Progress 33
   Looking Within: Complexity and Philosophy 37
   Looking Forward: Complexity and Architecture 37

3 Buildings as Complex Systems 42
   The Building as Flow 42
   The Building as Phenomena 45
   The Building as System 47
   The Building as Program 52
   The Building as Robot 54
   The Building as Teleology 55

PART TWO: EMBRACING COMPLEXITY 59

4 Encounters with Complexity 61
   Introduction 61
   The Four Encounters with Complexity 64
   Encounter One: Wicked Problems Basis of Complexity 65
   Encounter Two: Messy Complexity of the Whole 66
   Encounter Three: Ordered Complexity of the Essence 68
   Encounter Four: Natural Complexity of the Organism 71
   Discussion 74
Contents

5 Converging into Complexity
   - Introduction: Encounter, Converge, and Embrace 77
   - Convergence One: Bounded Rationality Meets Computer Cybernetics 78
   - Convergence Two: Local Perception Meets Global Dynamics 90
   - Convergence Three: Cost Meets Long-term Value 93
   - Convergence Four: Consumptive Growth Meets Environmental Limits 98

6 Embracing Complexity
   - Hermeneutics 107
   - Unique Essence 110
   - Animation 113
   - Aesthetics 118
   - Conclusion to Part Two 125

PART THREE: MAPPING COMPLEXITY ONTO THE REALM

7 Mapping Complexity onto the Profession
   - The Threads 129
   - Mapping Complexity onto the Realm 132
   - Discourses in the Realm 132
   - Mapping Complexity onto the Profession 133

8 Postindustrial Occupation in Architecture
   - Seeking Complexity: Richness and Fit 140
   - Revealing Complexity: Distinguishing Symptoms from Systems 144
   - Embracing Complexity: Beyond Intuition, Expertise, and Reduction 145
   - Mapping Complexity: From Relation to Information 148
   - Scoping Complexity: Toward a Clinical Practice of Architecture 154
   - Mining Complexity: Tools and Strategies 155

9 The Domain of Education
   - Postindustrial Complexity in Education 158
   - Components of a Postindustrial Curriculum 166

10 The Domain of the Discipline
   - Design Inquiry and Research Inquiry: How the Discipline Lives 183
   - Validity and Reliability in Architectural Discourse 186
   - Toward a Clinical Database of Architecture 188

Notes 197
Bibliography 209
Index 218