Contents

A Note on the Illustrations vii

Preface ix

Building the New Jerusalem: Five Challenges for Cities 1
  The Splintering of Urban Britain 2
  The Great Urban Exodus 2
  The Central Theme: Creating Better Cities 4
  The Five Basic Challenges 4

Part One: Facing the Challenges

1. The First Challenge: Rebalancing Our Urban Economies 9
   The North–South Divide; and the Great Cities versus the Rest 10
   Beyond the North–South Divide: A New Geography of Britain 13
   The South East Mega-City Region 14
   The Rural Periphery of Southern England 16
   The Archipelago Economy of Midland and Northern England 17
   The Rural North 22
   Conclusion 23

2. The Second Challenge: Building New Homes 25
   Not Enough New Homes 25
   The Wrong Kinds of Housing 29
   Housing in the Wrong Places 30
   Poorly Insulated, Poorly Designed Housing 34
   Priorities for Housing 37

3. The Third Challenge: Linking People and Places 39
   London: From Classic Public Transport Metropolis to Mega-City Region 41
   Los Angeles: First Full-Motorization City 43
   Three Kinds of City 44
   Inefficiencies and Contradictions 45
   Coordinating Transport and Land-Use Planning 47
   Resolving the Dilemma: Learning from Best-Practice Places 55

4. The Fourth Challenge: Living with Finite Resources 56
   The First Sustainability Challenge: Energy 57
   The Second Sustainability Challenge: Housing 65
   The Third Sustainability Challenge: Waste Management 67
   The Fourth Sustainability Challenge: Water – Too Little, Too Much 69
   The Fifth Sustainability Challenge: Food Supply 71
   Facing the Five Sustainability Challenges: Can the UK Manage? 73

5. The Fifth Challenge: Fixing Broken Machinery 74
   Suspect No. 1: The Homeowners 75
   Suspect No. 2: The Bankers 75
   Suspect No. 3: The Landowners 76
   Suspect No. 4: The Builders 77
   Suspect No. 5: The Planners 79
   Conclusion: The Need for a New Model 83