

Henk Kubbinga

The astronomical instruments (1618) and Catalogus librorum (1646) of Nicolaus Mulerius, with an essay on his place in the history of science

Groningen
Groningen University Press
2014

CONTENTS

Contents	v
Preface	vii
Chapter I Mulerius: historiography, history	1
Chapter II Mulerius' auction catalog	7
2.1 Introduction	7
2.2 The catalog	8
2.3 Three catalogs compared: Mulerius, Beeckman, and Gomarus	11
2.4 Analyzing Mulerius' catalog	16
2.5 Identifying Mulerius' books	21
2.6 Convolutions concerning a convolute; a dedication	27
Chapter III Mulerius in the history of science	29
3.1 Introduction	29
3.2 From Copernicus to Galileo (1543-1610); astronomy, astrology	32
3.3 Mulerius in the revolting Dutch Provinces; 1610-1618	48
Chapter IV Mulerius' instruments	57
4.1 Introduction	57
4.2 The astronomical ring dial	61
4.3 The terrula	64
4.4 The replicas	67
Chapter V Mulerius' Catalogus librorum [...]	71
Chapter VI Mulerius' books identified	109
Bibliography	211
Acknowledgments	221
Index of names	223