38th Nigeria Annual International Conference & Exhibition (NAICE 2014)

Africa’s Energy Corridor: Opportunities for Oil and Gas Value Maximization through Integration and Global Approach

Victoria Island, Lagos
5 – 7 August 2014

Volume 2 of 2

ISBN: 978-1-63439-346-1
Mini-DST in a Gas Reservoir: Issues, Challenges and Benefits
Anthony Uwaga, Davoud Bardal, Chris Ward, Melanie Trim; Centrica Energy E&P

Application of Artificial Neural Network Control Model for Predicting the Pressure Distribution in a Complex Commingled Well
E. N. Ikezue and O.D. Onukwuli, Anambra State University

A Simple Approach to Determining Original Gas-in-Place Using Production Data
S. Mohammed, University of Mines and Technology

Determination of Average Reservoir Pressure from Constant-Rate Drawdown Tests
S. Mohammed, University of Mines and Technology; G.S. Enty, Ghana National Petroleum Corporation; and E. M. Amarfio, University of Mines and Technology

Effective Field Development Management of a Gas Field in the Niger Delta
Daniel Ikechukwu Egu, Department of Petroleum Engineering, Madonna University, Enugu, Nigeria

Production Analysis for Solution Gas-Drive Reservoirs: General Variable Pressure/Variable Rate Case –Theory
S. Mohammed, E. M. Amarfio, and O. K. Dankwa, University of Mines and Technology

Environmental and Health Impacts of Nanoparticles Application in Our Oil Industry
Amarfio, Eric Mensah, Aust. Mohammed, Shaibu, UMAT

Application of the Yield Energy Approach to Prediction of Sand Debris Production in Reservoir Sandstones
Mustapha Lamorde, Jim M. Somerville, Sally A. Hamilton, Heriot-Watt University

Total Sand Management Solution for Guaranteed Flow Assurance in Subsea Development
M.Babs Oyeneyin, RGU/Intelligent Flow Solutions Ltd

Effect of Uncertainty in PVT Properties on CO₂ EOR
Buduka Stanley, Heriot Watt University Edinburgh

Shale Oil and Gas Revolution: Implications on Energy Market Outlook and Politics
A.A. Oyekunle, TEPNG
