WELFARE IN TRANSITION

Edited by
ROBERT ERIKSON AND RUNE ÅBERG

CLARENDON PRESS • OXFORD
1987
Contents

List of Abbreviations xvi
Contributing Authors xvii

1 The Nature and Distribution of Welfare
   Robert Erikson and Rune Åberg
   Theoretical starting points 2
   Principles for description 5
   Some findings 9
   Are we heading towards fewer differences? 13

2 Regression as a Tool for describing Variations in the Level of Living
   Jan Selén

3 The Class Structure and its Trends
   Robert Erikson
   The distribution of the classes and occupational groups 19
   Class and community type 26
   Has the working class become smaller? 28
   Social mobility 32
   Inflow to the classes 34
   Outflow 36
   Career mobility 39
   Summary 41

4 Disparities in Mortality
   Robert Erikson
   Sex differences in mortality 43
   Disparities in mortality among classes and occupational groups 53
   Mortality as indicator 57

5 Health and Health Care Utilization
   Sven-Åke Kjellström and Olle Lundberg
   Introduction 59
   Physical health 60
   Mental health 64
   Utilization of health care 64
   Final comments 74
Contents

6 Employment and Working Hours
   Rune Åberg
   Introduction 78
   The level of employment 79
   Unemployment 81
   The level of employment and types of working hours among women 82
   Sexual segregation in the labour market 85
   Changes in ordinary working hours among employees 90
   Employees' actual working hours 93
   Summary 100

7 Working Conditions
   Rune Åberg
   Introduction 102
   The physical working conditions of employees 106
   Job autonomy 107
   Mental stress in the workplace 111
   Qualification levels among employees 112
   Summary 114

8 Economic Resources
   Rune Åberg, Jan Selén, and Henrik Tham
   Introduction 117
   Distribution of individual incomes 120
   Household incomes 133
   Consumption and wealth 143
   Conclusion 151
   Appendix: definition of disposable income 152

9 Educational Resources
   Janne Jonsson
   Education — intrinsic value and resource value 154
   Data 157
   Educational reforms 158
   More people are studying for longer periods 161
   The distribution of education 163
   Education and occupational position 168
   Education — a relative resource 171
   Where are we heading? 172
   Results and trends 178
Contents

10 Housing Conditions

Tofte Frykman

- Background and issues: 181
- Definitions: 182
- Distribution of space and equipment standards: 184
- Forms of tenure: 189

11 Political Resources

Ryszard Szulkin

- Introduction: 194
- Political participation: 196
- Membership and activity in trade union organizations: 203
- The active and the passive: 210
- Self-defence against the authorities: 213
- Final comment: 213

12 Family and Social Integration

Christina Axelsson

- Social relationships in a welfare perspective: 217
- Family as primary integration: 219
- Living alone: 222
- Social interaction with relatives and friends: 224
- Isolation from family, relatives, and friends: 228
- Primary social integration — concluding remarks: 231

13 Leisure and Recreation

Michael Tåhlin

- Introduction: 234
- The scope of leisure: 236
- The nature of leisure: 242

14 Coexistence of Welfare Problems

Robert Erikson and Michael Tåhlin

- Introduction: 258
- Dimensions in the distribution of welfare: 261
- Accumulated problems within population groups: 269
- Discussion: 274
- Appendix: delimiting the problems: 278

Appendix A: Sampling and data collection: 282
Appendix B: A Regression Approach, background and details: 287
Bibliography: 291