Swedish Politics During the 20th Century

STIG HADENIUS

THE SWEDISH INSTITUTE
Table of Contents

Foreword 5

From Aristocracy to Democracy 7
   Industrialization 8
   Two-chamber Parliament and political parties 10
   Reforms and defense 15
   World War I and democratization 20

Toward a Swedish Model 26
   Weak Governments 27
   Issues 30
   The Kreuger crash and the Ådalen riots 32
   The crisis agreement 35
   Social reforms 38
   The Saltsjöbaden Agreement 40

World War II 43
   The outbreak of the war 43
   The Winter War 45
   A “spirit of readiness” 48
   The Engelbrecht Division 51
   Domestic policy 52
   The end of the war 54
   Swedish humanitarian aid 55

A Planned Economy 58
   Changes in leadership 59
   The Social Democratic postwar program 60
   Foreign policy 66
   The media 70

Years of Coalition 72
   The red-green coalition 73
   Foreign crises 76
   Labor market policy 80
   The legal corruption debate 82

The Supplementary Pension Controversy and After 85
   Pensions 85
   A draw? 90
   Economic debate 93
A neighborly visit 95
Hungary, Suez and the nuclear arms debate 97

The Record-breaking Years 101
The political parties 102
Reforms 111
Foreign policy 113
Constitutional reform 118

A Time of Unrest 123
From setback to success 124
Changes at the top 127
The miners’ strike and the one-chamber Parliament 129
Foreign policy 134
Labor law reforms 136
Press subsidies 139

Nonsocialist Victory 141
The 1976 elections 142
A tripartite nonsocialist Cabinet 144
The Cabinet crisis of 1978 147
The nuclear power referendum 150
A new Cabinet crisis 152

The Return of the Social Democrats 155
The 1982 elections 156
The new Government 158
Ideological confrontations 159

Unexpected Events 164
The parties 164
The death of Olof Palme 166
New nonsocialist party chairmen 169
The issues 171
Environmental issues and the Greens 174
The elections of 1985 and 1988 176
After the 1988 elections 181

A Swedish Model? 183
Trends 183
Interest organizations 185
Politics 187
Nonalignment and neutrality 188

Bibliography 190