The Birth of Identities
Denmark and Europe in the Middle Ages

Edited by Brian Patrick McGuire

C.A. Reitzel Publishers
Copenhagen 1996
Contents

Norman F. Cantor
   Ideological and Cultural Foundations of European Identity in the Middle Ages 11

Robert Bartlett
   Patterns of Unity and Diversity in Medieval Europe 29

Christopher Holdsworth
   Bernard of Clairvaux and a European Spirituality 47

Kim Esmark
   Man of Honor. Aspects of Medieval Knightly Identity in the Verse Biography of William the Marshal 69

Edward Skibinski
   Identity and Difference. Polish Identity in the Historiography of the Twelfth and Thirteenth Centuries 93

Gilbert Ouy
   Humanism and Nationalism in France at the Turn of the Fifteenth Century 107

Ole Feldbæk
   Is there Such a Thing as a Medieval Danish Identity? 127

Inge Skovgaard-Petersen
   Saxo's Denmark 135
Anders Leegaard Knudsen
The Use of Saxo Grammaticus in the Later Middle Ages 147

Niels Henrik Holmqvist-Larsen
Saxo Grammaticus in Danish Historical Writing and Literature 161

Brian Patrick McGuire
Archbishop Eskil and Danish Identity 189

Sten Ebbesen
How Danish were the Danish Philosophers? 213

Nanna Damsholt
Medieval Women’s Identity in a Postmodern Light. The Example of Queen Ingeborg 225

Leif Søndergaard
Diversity and Cultures in the Later Middle Ages 243

Stephen Turk Christensen
Eurocentrism in the Fifteenth Century 275

Uffe Østergaard
The Meaning of Europe. Empire, Nation-states, Civilization 301

Brian Patrick McGuire
Afterword. An Embarrassment of Identities 345

List of Contributors 361