The Freedom of the Migrant
Objections to Nationalism

VILÉM FLUSSER

Translated from the German by Kenneth Kronenberg
Edited and with an Introduction by Anke K. Finger

University of Illinois Press
Urbana, Chicago, and Springfield
Contents

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction: Vilém Flusser as Philosopher, Author, and Migrant ix
Anke K. Finger

Editor’s Note xxiii

The Challenge of the Migrant 1

On the Alien 16

We Need a Philosophy of Emigration 21

To Be Unsettled, One First Has to Be Settled 25

Planning the Unplannable 28

From Guest to Guest Worker 34

Thinking about Nomadism 38

Nomads 47

Building Houses 55

“How Goodly Are Your Tents, Jacob” 59

Ex-perience 65

Reunification or Networking? 71

Does the French Nation Still Exist? 75

Exile and Creativity 81

Conversation between Vilém Flusser and Patrik Tschudin 88