There is a resurgence of interest in culture and the humanities. Building on the success of the book series examines ways in which media are now part of everyday life, popular culture and its products.

The Media City

Media, Architecture and Urban Space

Scott McQuire
Contents

List of Illustrations vi
Preface vii
Acknowledgements xi
1 Introduction: The Uncanny Home 1

Part One Thresholds of the Media City 29
2 The Territory of Images 31
3 The City in Fragments 56
4 Liquid Cities 87

Part Two Public Space: Streets, Lights and Screens 111
5 Electropolis 113
6 Performing Public Space 130

Part Three Private Space: From Glass Architecture to Big Brother 159
7 The Glass House 161
8 The Digital Home 181
9 Conclusion 203

Bibliography 207
Index 221