Edward Said and the Literary, Social, and Political World

Edited by Ranjan Ghosh
Contents

Foreword
BENITA PARRY
Acknowledgements
Introduction

PART I

1 'A Roomy Place Full of Possibility': Said's Orientalism and the Literary
NICHOLAS HARRISON

2 Edward Said and Roland Barthes: Criticism versus Essayism. Or, Roads and Meetings Missed
ANDY STAFFORD

3 Derrida and Said: Ships that Pass in the Night
CAROLINE ROONEY

4 Said . . . Bloom . . . Vico
GRAHAM ALLEN

5 The Materiality and Ideality of Text: Said and Ricoeur
KARL SIMMS

PART II

6 'The Southern Question' and Said's Geographical Critical Consciousness
SHAOBO XIE
Contents

7 Fellow Travellers and Homeless Souls: Said's Critical Marxism
ROSS ABBINNETT
91

8 Edward Said and the Interplay of Music, History and Ideology
DEREK B. SCOTT
104

9 Edward Said and (the Postcolonial Occlusion of) Gender
ELLEKE BOEHMER
124

10 Reading Orientalism in Istanbul: Edward Said and Orhan Pamuk
KATE TELTSCHER
137

11 On Late Style: Edward Said's Humanism
PAL AHLUWALIA
150

---

PART III

12 Autobiography and Exile: Edward Said's Out of Place
LINDA ANDERSON
165

13 Edward Said, American International Policy and the War on Terror
TAIEB BELGHAZI
176

14 Representations of the Intellectual: The Historian as ‘ Outsider’
RANJAN GHOSH
190

---

Contributors

Index
207
211