Art and Theory After Socialism

Edited by Mel Jordan and Malcolm Miles

Editorial Assistant Karen Roulstone

intellect Bristol, UK / Chicago, USA
CONTENTS

Introduction 7

Chapter 1  From Shamed to Famed – The Transition of a Former Eastern German Arts Academy to the Talent Hotbed of a Contemporary Painters’ School. The Hochschule für Grafik und Buchkunst, Leipzig 9
Sophie A. Gerlach

Chapter 2  Attacking Objectification: Jerzy Bereś in Dialogue with Marcel Duchamp 21
Klara Kemp-Welch

Chapter 3  On the Ruins of a Utopia: Armenian Avant-Garde and the Group Act 33
Angela Harutyunyan

Chapter 4  Art Communities, Public Spaces and Collective Actions in Armenian Contemporary Art 43
Vardan Azatyan

Chapter 5  Appropriating the Ex-Cold War 55
Malcolm Miles

Chapter 6  The End of an Idea: On Art, Horizons and the Post-Socialist Condition 67
Simon Sheikh

Chapter 7  Exploring Critical and Political Art in the United Kingdom and Serbia 77
Sophie Hope & Marko Stamenkovic
Chapter 8  Other Landscapes (for Weimar, Goethe and Schiller)  89
Daniela Brasil

Chapter 9  The Ecology of Post-Socialism and the Implications of Sustainability for Contemporary Art  101
Maja Fowkes and Reuben Fowkes

Chapter 10  Functions, Functionalism and Functionlessness: On the Social Function of Public Art after Modernism  113
Freee Art Collective

The papers collected in this volume are a response to the changing political landscape in context of the end of the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe and curating, from a critical perspective. The conceptual arena can be seen as a marketplace in opposition to it), through socialist regimes in Eastern Europe, which were characterized by the failure of state socialism. The focus of this book is on cultural, social and political spheres, and the disappearing and ongoing struggles for new forms of abstraction.

This book and its companion volume, Critical Spaces Responses: Oil and the Arts in Armenia, co-produced with Art Critics, Armenia, at the American University of Armenia, Armenia, in 2005, a group of United States based Armenian and Armenian American artists. The papers presented here are from a robust. There were in 2005, a group of United States based Armenian and re-read with new insights, from an Armenian perspective. The papers presented here were under reconstructed, and later the number of pages was estimate as the re-read by the numbering of the National Museum, Armenian.