

The Practice of Light

A Genealogy of Visual Technologies from Prints to Pixels

Sean Cubitt

The MIT Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts
London, England

Contents

Series Foreword xi

Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction 1

1 [black] 21

Black Matters 21

"Rembrandt," or, Invisibility 23

The Night Watch 27

Black as Ink 31

Gray 35

Virtual Black 42

2 Line 45

Rays 45

Diagramming Light 52

Autonomy of the Line 60

Mickey Mouse and the Maid of Corinth 64

Dialectic of the Line 70

Edge and Vector 74

3 Surface 79

3.1 Texture 80

Mezzotint, Aquatint, Lithography 80

Photography: Ansel Adams 83

Halftone and Wire Photography 88

Automation and Control 91

The Raster Grid from CRT to Digital Projection 95

CCD and CMOS	100
The Politics of Number	104
3.2 Color	111
Sensation	111
Johannes de Eyck Fuit Hic	115
Newton	120
Goethe	126
Charles Lock Eastlake and Industrial Chemistry	129
Technicolor	132
Chromolithography, Cartoons, and Childhood	136
Ordering Color	138
Digital Color	144
4 Space	153
4.1 Shadows	155
Volume and Rim	155
Chiaroscuro and Fetish	160
CGI Shading	163
Fog	165
Cast Shadow	168
Shadow Color	172
4.2 Layers	178
Silhouettes	178
Flats and Mattes: Scenography in Theater and Film	181
Pfeiffer, Edwards, Tabrizian	186
Silkscreen	190
3D Cinema: Avatar and T-Visionarium	195
Composites	199
4.3 Projection	202
Flattening: Maps and Graphs	202
Perspective and (Technological) Determinism	208
Tutor-code and Lens	213
Projection and Data Projection	217
From Searchlight to Laser	221
Cubism and the Voxel	226
From Space to Time	233

5 Time 235

Orders of Time 235

The Photograph of Roland Barthes's Mother 236

Intermittence and Continuity 240

Latency in Digital and Analog Media 244

MPEG-4 and Entropy 246

Codec Wars 253

Vector Aesthetics 257

6 Reflection 265

Ancestors 265

Communion as the End of Ethics 271

A Note on the Title 273

Notes 275

References 281

Index 305