Contents

Acknowledgements vii
List of Illustrations viii

Introduction 1
Lisa Shaw and Tim Bergfelder

1. Consuming visions: female stars, the melindrosa and desires for a Brazilian film industry 23
Maite Conde

2. A star system created by fans: Pernambucan cinema in the 1920s 46
Luciana Corrêa de Araújo

3. A star in the spotlight: Carmen Santos and Brazilian cinema of the 1920s 60
Ana Pessoa

4. Carmen Miranda: from national star to global brand 73
Ana Rita Mendonça and Lisa Shaw

5. Cinelândia magazine and the creation of home-grown movie stars in the 1950s 93
Lisa Shaw

6. Oscarito and Grande Otelo: 'the terrible twosome' 111
João Luiz Vieira and Leonardo Côrtes Macario

7. Eliane Lage: a falling star in the skies of the tropics 128
Ana Carolina de Moura Delfim Maciel
8. Radio stars on screen: critiques of stardom in Moacyr Fenelon’s
   Tudo azul (1952) 144
   Luís Alberto Rocha Melo

9. Jece Valadão, the ‘charming crook’: a star image between tradition and modernity 162
   Rafael de Luna Freire

10. José Mojica Marins versus Coffin Joe: auteurism and stardom in Brazilian cinema 178
    Laura Loguercio Cânepa

11. As loiras: Brazil’s screen blondes 196
    Stephanie Dennison

12. A star is born: the rising profile of the non-professional actor in recent
    Brazilian cinema 210
    Charlotte Gleghorn

13. The black body reframed: Lázaro Ramos and the performance of interracial love 227
    Ben Hoff

14. Seu Jorge as a cross-media star: between local authenticity and global appeal 249
    Katia Augusta Maciel

15. Latin lover or Latin(0) loser? Rodrigo Santoro and the Hollywood stereotype 263
    Daniel O’Brien

Index 283