WORK IN THE DIGITAL AGE

Challenges of the Fourth Industrial Revolution

Edited by Max Neufeind, Jacqueline O’Reilly and Florian Ranft

ROWMAN & LITTLEFIELD INTERNATIONAL
London • New York
CONTENTS

Preface xvii
Acknowledgements xxi

Introduction
Identifying the challenges for work in the digital age  1
Jacqueline O’Reilly, Florian Ranft and Max Neufeind

Part I. Debating the fourth industrial revolution 25
A. The destructive creation of employment in the digital age 27
Destructive creation: Explaining the productivity paradox in the digital age 29
Luc Soete

Entrepreneurial finance in the era of intelligent tools and digital platforms: Implications and consequences for work 47
Martin Kenney and John Zysman

Gender equality prospects and the fourth industrial revolution 63
Debra Howcroft and Jill Rubery

No need for automation angst, but automation policies 75
Daniel Arnold, Melanie Arntz, Terry Gregory, Susanne Steffes and Ulrich Zierahn
CONTENTS

Value creation in the data-driven economy
Paul Hofheinz

Shaping structural change in an era of new technology
Robert D. Atkinson

B. The changing face of work in the digital age

The impact of artificial intelligence on employment
Georgios Petropoulos

Game-changing technologies for European manufacturing
Enrique Fernández-Macias

Mastering the digital transformation: An inclusive robotisation agenda
Monique Kremer and Robert Went

Working in the gig economy: Insights from Europe
Ursula Huws, Neil H. Spencer, Dag Sverre Syrdal and Kaire Holts

The platform economy: Consequences for labour, inequality and the environment
Juliet B. Schor

Employment and regulation for clickworkers
Janine Berg and Valerio De Stefano

C. Labour relations and the welfare state in the digital age

Redefining labour relations and capital in the digital age
Colin Crouch

Rebalancing worker power in the networked economy: Toward collective regulation of outsourced and precarious work
Virginia L. Doellgast

Collective action and bargaining in the digital era
Cécile Jolly

British workers' rights after Brexit
Kate Bell
CONTENTS

Why adaptive technical skills systems are needed to capitalise on the technological revolution: Challenges for the UK 235
Thomas Aubrey

The politics of social risks and social protection in digitalised economies 247
Bruno Palier

The world of work in 2030: Four scenarios 259
Salima Benhamou

Part II. Comparing digital discourses 271

A. High digital density EU countries 273

Denmark: Progressing the voluntarist approach 275
Anna Ilsøe

Finland: Teaching old dogs new tricks 285
Jenni Karjalainen

Sweden: Will history lead the way in the age of robots and platforms? 295
Fredrik Söderqvist

The Netherlands: The sectoral impact of digitalisation on employment and job quality 305
Maarten Keune and Fabian Dekker

B. Medium digital density EU countries 315

Belgium: Reinvigorating the self-regulated labour market model 317
Patrizia Zanoni

UK: Preparing for the digital revolution 333
Olivia Bailey and Andrew Harrop

Ireland: How to escape the low learning trap in a runaway labour market 345
Seán Ó Riain and Amy E. Healy

Austria: Challenging the perception of technology as an end in itself 357
Jörg Flecker
CONTENTS

Germany: Rebalancing the coordinated market economy in times of disruptive technologies 371
Sven Rahner and Michael Schönstein

Spain: After the storm – at the crossroads between employment, job quality and technological change 385
Rafael Grande

Portugal: Preparing the next generation 401
Joana A. Vicente

C. Low digital density EU countries 415

France: Moving up the digital ranks? 417
Enzo Weber

Central and eastern Europe: Raising living standards through innovation-driven growth 431
Jan Drahokoupil

Slovenia: Grassroots trade unions and the empowerment of the young 441
Aleksandra Kanjuo Mrčela

Latvia: A case of paradigmatic misalignment 449
Dmitrijs Kravcenko

Poland: Developing a smart digital agenda 461
Maria Skóra

Italy: Prioritising human capital 471
Carlotta de Franceschi

Greece: In search of growth, work and welfare after the crisis 483
Sotiria Theodoropoulos

D. Global perspectives 495

Canada: Opportunities for the many? 497
Juan Gomez and Rafael Gomez

US: Balancing risks and improving job quality in a changing economy 513
Arne L. Kalleberg
India: Livelihoods in a digital age of manufacturing
Marc Saxer

Conclusion
Political realities and a reform agenda for the digital age

About the authors