

Market as Place and Space of Economic Exchange

Perspectives from archaeology and anthropology

edited by

Hans Peter Hahn and Geraldine Schmitz

Contents

Preface, by Hans P. Hahn and Geraldine Schmitz	v
1. Introduction. Markets as places: Actors, structures and ideologies	1
Hans P. Hahn
Part I: Archaeological approaches
2. Of middens and markets: The phenomenology of the market place in the Bronze Age and beyond.....	20
Lorenz Rahmstorf
3. Beyond the market: Reflections on the archaeological remains of exchange processes.....	41
Laura Picht
4. Dealing with the foreign: The movement of artifacts and values in Bronze Age Europe	59
Lukas Wiggering
5. Crates and crates of sigillata ? The supply of Italic terra sigillata to Roman military camps	76
Thomas Hahn
6. Built space and consuming place: Archaeological research on a medieval market in Tulln, Lower Austria	91
Ute Scholz
7. The impact of the kula on archaeological interpretation: The case of Lapita shell ornaments.....	115
Katherine Szabó

Part II: Anthropological and historical approaches

8. Markets in West Africa: Karl Polanyi, or what sort of social formation..... 127
Mahir Şaul
9. Market thinking: Perspectives from Saharan and Atlantic West Africa 152
Ann B. Stahl
10. An economy between the markets: The case of the central market in Tamale, northern Ghana 180
Geraldine Schmitz
11. The walking cartographies of the marketplaces of Surat 197
Nishpriha Thakur
12. Direct sales in the Amazon: Precariously mediating regimes of value 208
Jessica Chelekis
13. Tourists on the Nasara: The ritual ground as a space for commodification in Vanuatu, southwest Pacific 228
Hugo DeBlock
14. 'It was harder before; we lived by the market':
Hopes and fears of a market-free future in East New Britain 240
Keir Martin