CLUSTERS of INNOVATION:
Regional Foundations of U.S. Competitiveness

Professor Michael E. Porter, Harvard University
Monitor Group
ontheFRONTIER
Council on Competitiveness
CLUSTERS OF INNOVATION INITIATIVE:
REGIONAL FOUNDATIONS OF U.S. COMPETITIVENESS

CONTENTS

- Foreword by the Chairman of the Council on Competitiveness . . . . iv
- Foreword by the Co-Chairs of the Clusters of Innovation Initiative . . . . v
- Acknowledgments ................................................................. vi
- National and Regional Steering Committee Members of the Clusters of Innovation Initiative ........................................ vii
- Executive Summary .............................................................. ix
- Introduction ........................................................................... 1

1 Regional Competitiveness and Innovative Capacity ................. 5
2 The Economic Performance of Regions .................................. 10
3 The Composition of Regional Economies ............................... 18
4 The Evolution of Regional Economies ................................. 28
5 The Determinants of Regional Competitiveness and Innovative Capacity ................................................................. 35
6 Clusters .............................................................................. 53
7 The Development of Clusters .............................................. 62
8 Creating and Implementing a Regional Economic Strategy .......... 71
9 Action Agendas for the Public and Private Sectors .................... 80

Appendices

1. Assessing Regional Economic Competitiveness and Innovative Capacity: A How To Guide ................................................. A1
2. Definition of Measurements .............................................. A9
3. Samples Results of Regional Survey: All Five Regions .......... A13

ABOUT the Clusters of Innovation Initiative Participants ............ A29