Subsistence Agriculture in Central and Eastern Europe: How to Break the Vicious Circle?

Edited by
Steffen Abele and Klaus Frohberg

IAMO
2003
CONTENTS

Introduction ........................................................................................................................................ 1

Subsistence Agriculture in Development: Its Role in Processes of Structural Change ................................................................. 1
Franz Heidhues, Michael Bruntrup

Institutions and Technologies for Subsistence Agriculture: How to Increase Commercialization .................................................. 28
Zvi Lerman

Policy Options to Overcome Subsistence Agriculture in the CEECs ...... 46
Joachim von Braun, Daniela Lohlein

Decision Making Patterns of Subsistence Farmers in Bulgaria .............. 71
Plamen Mishev, Philip Kostov

Commercialisation of Subsistence Agriculture in Transition Economies: On Imperfect Competition, Market Development and Support Policies .......................................................................................... 86
Ernst-August Nuppenau

Development Perspectives of Subsistence Farms in Southeastern Poland: Social Buffer Stock or Commercial Agriculture? .............. 107
Martin Petrick, Ewa Tyran

The Market Potential and Patterns of Contemporary Agriculture in Romania's Northwestern Plain .................................................................................................................. 124
Csaba M. Kovács

Subsistence Farming in Bulgaria: Between Tradition and Market Requirements .................................................................................. 133
Diana Kopeva, Nivelin Noev
The Significance of Subsistence Farming in Georgia as an Economic and Social Buffer

Hannah Kegel

Agrarian Reform and Subsistence Agriculture in Russia

Vladimir Yefimov

Economic Background and Development Opportunities of Individual Subsidiary Holdings in the Ukraine: Some Empirical Evidence

Andriy Nedoborovskyy

Modeling Subsistence Agriculture in Russia: Effects of Total Productivity Changes and Reduction of Marketing Margins

Peter Wehrheim, Peter Wobst