

The Impact
of EU Free Trade Agreements
on Economic Development and Regional Integration in Southern Africa
The Example of EU-SACU Trade Relations

Mareike Meyn

PETER LANG

Europäischer Verlag der Wissenschaften

Table of Contents

I. List of Abbreviations	21
II. List of Tables	25
III. List of Figures	27
IV. List of Boxes	30
V. List of Appendixes	31
1. Introduction, Objectives and Methodology of the Study
1.1 Introduction	33
1.2 Objectives and Scope of the Study	34
1.3 Main Theses and Methodology	36
1.4 Organisation of the Study	41
2. The Southern African Customs Union (SACU)
2.1 Economic and Socio-Economic Indicators of SACU Member States	45
2.2 Costs and Benefits arising from Regional Integration: Static and Dynamic Effects	56
2.3 Foundation and Purpose: the SACU Agreement 1969 and the Role of South Africa	66
2.4 Costs and Benefits of Regional Integration for SACU Members	75
2.5 The Revised SACU Agreement: Challenges for the BLNS Countries	81
2.6 SACU – Quo Vadis?	92
2.7 SACU's External Trade Relations and Trade Regimes with the EU	96
2.8 Conclusions	100
3. SACU - EU Trade Relations: From Unilateral Preferences to Reciprocal Trade
3.1 Overview of the Objectives and Instruments of the Lomé Conventions (I - IV)	103
3.2 Theoretical Assumptions of the Lomé Conventions	110
3.3 The Internal Reasons for the Failure of the Lomé Conventions	113

3.3.1	EU-BLNS Trade and the Impact of Lomé Preferences on BLNS Countries' Exports	117
3.3.2	BNS Countries' Agro-Based Exports to the EU: Diversification Efforts and Constraints	121
3.4	The External Reasons for the Failure of Lomé	127
3.5	The EU-South Africa Free Trade Agreement and its Impact on the BLNS Countries and Regional Integration in Southern Africa	129
3.6	The EU's Approach of "Economic Partnership Agreements" (EPAs) and its Implications for Regional Integration in Southern Africa	147
3.7	What Should an "Optimal" EPA for Southern African Countries Look Like?	152
3.8	Conclusions: Credibility and Commitment of the new EU Policy towards Southern Africa	160
4	The Contribution of Free Trade Agreements to Industrialisation, Regional Integration and Economic Development in the SACU Countries
4.1	What Can Industrialisation Strategies in Developing Countries Look Like?	163
4.2	Links between Trade and Economic Development	167
4.2.1	The Relevance of Manufacturing Value Added Activities for Economic Development in SACU	174
4.2.2	SACU Countries' Manufacturing Activities and Industrialisation Policies	177
4.2.3	The Contribution of FDI and Trade Preference Schemes to SACU Countries' Industrialisation Strategies	198
4.2.4	SACU Countries Industrial Policy Options in a Liberalising Trading Environment	205
4.3	The Contribution of Deeper Regional Integration and EU North-South Free Trade Agreements to Economic Development in SACU	207
4.4	Conclusions: Industrialisation Policies, Regional Integration and the Impact of North-South Free Trade Agreements on SACU countries' Industrialisation Process	211

5 Cases of Successful Industrial Policy and the Contribution of EU Free Trade Agreements: Evidence from the South African Automotive Industry and the Namibian Fishing Industry

5.1	Economic Relevance of the South African Automotive and the Namibian Fishing Industry and the Role of Free Trade Agreements with the EU	213
5.2	Main Theses and Key Questions of Case Studies	215
5.3	Organisation of Case Studies	216
5.4	Case Study 1: The South African Automotive Component Industry
5.4.1	Structure of Case Study 1	217
5.4.2	Economic Performance, Value Addition and Prospects for the South African Automotive Industry	218
5.4.3	Automotive Trade and Trade Liberalisation with the EU	228
5.4.4	Empirical Findings	230
5.4.4.1	Methodology, Firm Profiles and Characteristics	231
5.4.4.2	Exports to the EU and Development of Export Options	237
5.4.4.3	Europe's Relevance as an Input Source	248
5.4.4.4	Competition in the Domestic and International Markets	250
5.4.4.5	Value Chain and Value Added of Exports	252
5.4.4.6	Companies' Strategy	256
5.4.4.7	Summary of Empirical Findings thus far	260
5.4.5	The South African Automotive Manufacturing Industry and the TDCA	264
5.4.6	Conclusions: The Implications for Upgrading, Value Addition and Industrialisation Strategies when Including the South African Automotive Industry into a Free Trade Agreement with the EU	271
5.5	Case Study 2: The Namibian Fishing Industry
5.5.1	Structure of Case Study 2	275
5.5.2	Gains and Losses of Including Fisheries into Free Trade - Some Considerations from a Developing Country's Perspective	275
5.5.3	Economic Performance of the Namibian Fishing Industry and Exports to the EU	281
5.5.4	"Namibianisation" and other Management Policies in the Fishing Industry	287
5.5.5	Empirical Findings	292
5.5.5.1	Methodology, Firm Profiles and Characteristics	292
5.5.5.2	Exports to the EU and Development of Export Options	299
5.5.5.3	Europe's Relevance as an Input Source	311

5.5.5.4	Competition in the Domestic and International Markets	312
5.5.5.5	Value Chain and Value Added of Exports	314
5.5.5.6	Companies' Strategy	319
5.5.6	Chances and Risks for Namibia of Entering into a Fishery Agreement with the EU	326
5.5.7	Conclusions: The Implications for Upgrading, Value Addition and Industrialisation Strategies when Including the Namibian Fishing Industry into a Free Trade Agreement with the EU	328
5.6	Overall Conclusions: Economic Performance, Industrial Policy and the Impact of Free Trade with the EU: Common Grounds and Differences of the South African Automotive Industry and the Namibian Fishing Industry	331
6	Trade Capacity Building in the SACU countries and its Relevance for Development Oriented Trade Relations with the EU
6.1	Free Trade Agreements and Economic Development: Why is Trade Capacity Building Crucial?	337
6.2	The Capacity of SACU Countries' Public and Private Sectors to Participate in Regional and International Trade Negotiations.	340
6.3	Case Study 3: Trade Capacity in Botswana and Namibia	346
6.3.1	Methodology and Characteristics of Interview Partners	346
6.3.2	Awareness and Appraisal of the EU-South Africa Free Trade Agreement in Botswana and Namibia	347
6.3.3	Technical Assistance and Training Needs	351
6.3.4	Information and Participation Policy	356
6.3.5	Appraisal on the Impact of the EU-South Africa Free Trade Agreement on Regional Integration and SACU's External Trade Relations	358
6.4	Summary of Empirical Findings	362
6.5	The Relevance of Trade Capacity Building for EU-SACU Trade Relations What Needs to be Done to Improve BLNS Countries' Capabilities to Participate Effectively in Trade Negotiations?	363

7 Synthesis, Recommendations and Outlook of the Study
7.1 Analytical and Strategic Syntheses	371
7.2 Appraisal of the effects of EU Free Trade Agreements	376
7.2.1 On Regional Integration within SACU	376
7.2.2 On the Development Aspects of Future Trade Relations with the BLNS Countries	378
7.2.3 On SACU Countries' Industrialisation Strategies and Industrial Policy Options	380
7.2.4 On the South African Automotive and the Namibian Fishing Industry	383
7.2.5 On SACU Countries Trade-Related Capacities	386
7.3 Conclusions and Outlook	393
References	397
Appendix	433