Introduction: A New View of Organizational Design

1.1 Preliminary issues in the study of the organization

1.1.1 The concept of organization 4

1.1.2 Unit of analysis 5

1.2 An overview of a new approach to the study of organization

1.2.1 The roots of the new approach

1.2.1.1 Organization science 6

1.2.1.2 Business history 6

1.2.1.3 Management studies 10

1.2.1.4 Economic theory 11

1.2.2 A new approach to the study of organizational design 11

1.3 The substance of the economics of organizational design

1.3.1 Transaction cost economics 14

1.3.2 The information processing stream 15

1.3.3 The decentralization of incentive stream 17

1.3.4 On the dynamics of organizational design 20

1 A New Quantitative Empirical Methodology for the Analysis of Organizational Design and Dynamics

1.1 Introduction 23

1.2 Measures of organizational design

1.2.1 Structural organizational variables: configuration and centralization 25

  5.1 Introduction 192
  5.2 Methodological issues 193
    5.2.1 Measurement of performance 193
    5.2.2 Unit of analysis 194
    5.2.3 Characteristics of data sets 194
5.2.4 Econometric methodology
5.3 Effects of organizational design on productivity
  5.3.1 Single-industry studies
    5.3.1.1 Steel industry
    5.3.1.2 Automobile assembly industry
    5.3.1.3 Machining
    5.3.1.4 Telecommunication services
    5.3.1.5 Business services
  5.3.2 Cross-industry evidence
    5.3.2.1 Cross-section estimates
    5.3.2.2 Panel data estimates
5.4 Effects of organizational design on firm profitability
  5.4.1 Previous empirical evidence
  5.4.2 Evidence based on the new empirical methodology
5.5 More on the complementarity between technological and organizational innovations
5.6 Concluding remarks
