Institutional Change and Economic Development

Edited by
HA-JOON CHANG
Faculty of Economics, University of Cambridge
CONTENTS

List of Figures ix
List of Tables xi
List of Contributors xiii
Foreword by Deepak Nayyar xvii
Acknowledgements xxi

1. Institutional change and economic development:
   An introduction 1
   Ha-Joon Chang

   Part I: Theoretical Overview

2. Understanding the relationship between institutions and economic development — some key theoretical issues 17
   Ha-Joon Chang

3. Extending the ‘institutional’ turn: Property, politics, and development trajectories 35
   Peter B. Evans

4. Institutionalism ancient, old, and new: A historical perspective on institutions and uneven development 53
   Erik S. Reinert

   Part II: Evolution of Particular Institutions

5. Modern bureaucracy 75
   John Toye

6. Central banks as agents of economic development 95
   Gerald Epstein

7. Corporate governance, innovative enterprise, and economic development 115
   William Lazonick

8. The political economy of taxation and tax reform in developing countries 135
   Jonathan di John
9. The rule of law, legal traditions, and economic growth: The East Asian example
   Meredith Jung-En Woo

   Part III: Country Experiences

10. State formation and the construction of institutions for the first industrial nation
    Patrick Karl O'Brien

11. The role of federalism in developing the US during nineteenth-century globalization
    Eric Rauchway

12. Institutions and economic growth: The successful experience of Switzerland, 1870–1950
    Thomas David and André Mach

13. The rise and halt of economic development in Brazil, 1945–2004: Industrial catching-up, institutional innovation, and financial fragility
    Leonardo Burlamaqui, José A. P. de Souza, and Nelson H. Barbosa-Filho

14. Rethinking import-substituting industrialization: Development strategies and institutions in Taiwan and China
    Tianbiao Zhu

15. Developmental nationalism and economic performance in Africa: The case of three ‘successful’ African economies
    Julius Kiiza

   Index

The use of particular designations of countries or territories does not imply any judgement by United Nations University as to the legal status of such countries or territories, of their authorities and institutions or of the delimitation of their boundaries. The designations ‘developed’ and ‘developing’ regions are intended for statistical and analytical convenience and do not necessarily express a judgement about the stage reached by a particular country or area in the development process.