Biracial Unions on Galveston’s Waterfront, 1865–1925

Clifford Farrington

Texas State Historical Association
Austin
Contents

Acknowledgments vii

INTRODUCTION
“A significant strategy” 1

CHAPTER ONE
“No persons of Color”: The Screwmen’s Benevolent Association and the White Labor Monopoly 17

CHAPTER TWO
“The colored men along the shore”: The Cotton Jammers and the Longshoremen’s Association and the Challenge from Black Labor 51

CHAPTER THREE
“For our mutual benefit and protection”: The Emergence of a Biracial Class Consciousness 81
Biracial Unions on Galveston’s Waterfront

Chapter Four
“Amalgamation regardless of color or race”:
The New Orleans Plan

Chapter Five
“The benefits of organization have been lost sight of”:
The Decline of Union Power

Conclusion
“A standing they could not otherwise have attained”

Notes

Bibliography

Index