Contents

List of figures xi
List of tables xii
Notes on contributors xiv

1 Introduction 1
RICHARD SANDERS

Opening remarks 1
China's post-reform economy 3
The next twenty-five years? 5
Concluding remarks 10

PART I
China's post-reform economy: achieving harmony 13

2 The origins of China's quest for a harmonious society: failure on the governance and environmental fronts 15
WING THYE WOO

October 2006: a turning point in policymaking 15
The challenges to continued high growth 17
The need for improved governance to sustain economic growth 18
The need for environmental protection to sustain economic growth 21
Final remarks 25

3 Environment, health and sustainability in twenty-first-century China 30
IAN COOK

The problem of water 30
The quality of the air: dust, desertification and air pollution 34
Contents

Health problems 35
Energy use 38
Other environmental questions 39
Policy dimensions 41

4 Challenge, governance reform and disharmony in rural society 44
JOHN Q. TIAN

Introduction 44
WTO and rural China's integration into the global economy 45
Challenges of global integration and policy reforms 47
Policy reforms and local governance crisis 49
Rural education and inequality 52
Health care and rural poverty 55
Governance crisis and disharmony in rural society 58
Conclusion 60

5 Exit of involution in rural China 69
YANG CHEN

Introduction 69
The evolution of township and village enterprises (TVEs) and the de-involution of rural China 69
Regional diversity: the formation of two types of 'semi-industrial, semi-farming' rural society in the Chinese countryside 72
An alternative path of development: non-economic cooperatives 79

6 Regional vulnerability, inequality and asset growth 85
YIU POR CHEN AND RICHARD SCHIERE

Introduction 85
Measuring vulnerability through asset ownership 86
Data description 88
Methodology 90
Results 95
Conclusion and policy implications 98
PART II
China's post-reform economy: sustaining growth 103

7 China's banking reform 105
CHARLES GOODHART AND XIAOSONG ZENG

Introduction 105
Key problems of China's banking sector 105
What are the fundamental problems with China's banking system? 107
Some proposals for banking reform in China 111
What is the way forward for Chinese banks? 116

8 Ownership reform, foreign competition and efficiency of Chinese commercial banks 119
SHUJIE YAO AND ZHONGWEI HAN

Introduction 119
The reform of China's banking industry 121
Banking efficiency literature and DEA methodology 124
Efficiency analysis of the Chinese commercial banks 128
The Malmquist index 136
Conclusion 139
Appendix 8.1: Names and abbreviations of national commercial banks in China 141

9 Local states and the building of a regulatory state 144
BJÖRN ALPERMANN

Introduction 144
Developments at the national level 146
Provincial regulations on the cotton sector 149
Local management of the cotton sector 151
Conclusion 156
Appendix 9.1: Legal and policy documents quoted in the text 158

10 The dynamics of industrial clusters in China 170
WANG JINMIN, YANG CHEN AND RICHARD SANDERS

Introduction 170
Key features of industrial clusters 171
Industrial clusters in developing countries 172
Institutional change and growth of the Ningbo clothing cluster 176
Contents

The role of entrepreneurs 177
The role of local government 181
Concluding remarks 184

11 Industrial catch-up during transition and globalization 187
PEI SUN

Introduction 187
Competitiveness and catch-up of the Chinese steel industry 188
Fragmented governance structure of the Chinese steel industry 195
Concluding remarks 200

12 The importance of ultra high speed railways for China in the twenty-first century 205
JOHN KIDD AND MARIELLE STUMM

Introduction 205
Early railway infrastructure 205
Current logistical pressures 206
Maglev systems 209
Comparative costs of rail systems 211
Issues affecting maglev take-up 213
Conclusions 219

13 Managing the transition from administrative monopoly to regulated monopoly in China’s strategic sectors 223
YANG CHEN AND RICHARD SANDERS

Introduction 223
Monopoly vs. competition: ongoing debate on the further reform of China’s strategic sectors – new policy initiatives 224
The fuzzy nature of the new policy initiatives 225
The conflict between monopolistic national champions and competition policy 227
A case of conflict between a national champion and a non-public newcomer in China’s oil industry 228
‘Monopolistic regulation’: the nature of China’s oil and petroleum industry 228

Index 244