

Veit Köppen, Roland M. Müller (Eds.)

Business Intelligence: Methods and Applications

Essays in Honor of Prof. Dr. Hans-J. Lenz

Verlag Dr. Kovač

Hamburg
2007

Contents

zur

Selection of Prof. Lenz's Contributions to Business Intelligence
Veit Köppen 1

Business Intelligence (BI): New Buzz-Word or Serious Challenge?
Hans-J. Lenz 11

Part I Data and Business Intelligence

Conceptual Development of OLAP Applications
András Molnár, Bernhard Thalheim 27

Semi-Automatic-ETL
Ramzi Musa 39

Mobile Decision Support Information Systems
Ilias Michalarias 45

Intelligent Business Intelligence and Privacy: More Knowledge through Less Data?
Bettina Berendt 63

Part II Statistics and Business Intelligence

Measuring What Matters
David J. Hand 83

An Adaptive Test for the Two-Sample Scale Problem
Herbert Büning 91

Part III Graphical Models for Business Intelligence

Abductive Inference with Probabilistic Graphical Models
Christian Borgelt 105

Visualizing Interesting Rules through Belief Network Inspection
Matthias Steinbrecher, Rudolf Kruse..... 123

Notification Value in Personal Travel Assistance
Markus Schaal..... 131

Part IV Data Mining and Decision Support in Business Intelligence

Monitoring Cluster Transitions with MONIC
Myra Spiliopoulou, Irene Ntoutsis, Yannis Theodoridis, Rene Schult 141

IT Investment Behavior vs. Profitability - an Experimental Study
Steffan Baron, Oliver Günther, Altug Kul, Sushmita Swaminathan, Max Teltzrow..... 153

Risk-Sensitive Decision Support for Admission Control
Christiane Barz and Karl-Heinz Waldmann 165

A Multiple-Criteria Decision Model for Web Portal Success Evaluation
Daniel Delić..... 175

Part V Forecasting, Simulation, and Controlling in Business Intelligence

Business Process and Performance Indicator Simulation for Business Intelligence
Veit Köppen..... 189

Forecasting Tourism Demand: A Stochastic Approach
Christoph Haehling von Lanzenauer, Alexander Belousow 199

A Fuzzy-based Approach for Long-Range Forecasting
Roland M. Müller..... 211