

841 396 54X

Mainstreaming Development in the WTO

Developing Countries in the Doha Round

Contents

Foreword	i
Preface and Acknowledgements	iii
Abbreviation and Acronyms	ix
Chapter 1: The Promise of Development in the Doha Round	1
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Evolution of Multilateral Rule-Based System and S&DT	3
1.3 Sovereign Equality, MFN and S&DT	3
1.4 S&DT and the Development Dimension of the Multilateral Trading System	4
1.5 The Doha Round	4
1.6 The Cancun Ministerial Meeting	5
1.7 Why Cancun Failed?	5
1.8 The July 2004 WTO General Council Framework Agreement	7
1.9 The Hong Kong Ministerial Conference in December 2005	8
1.10 Aid for Trade	10
1.11 The Suspension of the WTO Negotiation	10
1.12 From the Resumption of the Doha Negotiations to the Delhi Ministerial Meeting	10
Chapter 2: Mainstreaming Development in the WTO	15
2.1 Introduction	15
2.2 The Global Context and the Debate on Trade and Development	17
2.3 The Four Elements of the Development Dimension	20
2.4 Conclusion	22
Chapter 3: The WTO July 2004 Framework Agreement	25
3.1 Introduction	25
3.2 Background to the July Package	26
3.3 Background to Agriculture	28
3.4 The July Package on Agriculture: The Groser Text	30
3.5 The Oshima Text	31
3.6 An Evaluation of the Agriculture Text	32
3.7 Background to Cotton	34
3.8 Background to NAMA	36
3.9 Background to the Singapore Issues: Trade Facilitation	39
3.10 Background to the Development Issues	41
3.11 Conclusion	45

Chapter 4: How LDCs and SVEs can Gain from the Doha
Development Agenda	49
4.1 Introduction	49
4.2 Fair Trade	51
4.3 Capacity Building	58
4.4 Balanced Rules	60
4.5 Good Governance	64
4.6 Recommendations	65
4.7 Conclusion	67
Chapter 5: The 6th WTO Hong Kong Ministerial Conference	73
5.1 Introduction	73
5.2 What Happened in Hong Kong?	75
5.3 The Way Forward	79
Chapter 6: Aid for Trade: An Essential Component of the
Multilateral Trading System	83
6.1 Introduction	83
6.2 The GATT/WTO, S&DT and Capacity Building	85
6.3 The Doha Round, S&DT and Capacity Building	86
6.4 The Concept of Increased Aid for Trade Gains
Momentum	89
6.5 Additional Aid or Additional Aid for Trade?	93
6.6 Conclusion	96
Annex	100
Chapter 7: From Hong Kong to Potsdam G-4 Collapse	105
7.1 Introduction	105
7.2 From Hong Kong to the Missed April 2006 Deadline	108
7.3 June 2006: Another Failed Attempt to Concluded
Modalities	112
7.4 July 2006: G-8 Summit in St. Petersburg and the
Suspension of the Doha Negotiation	116
7.5 From Suspension to “Soft-Resumption”	121
7.6 January 2007 to the Delhi G-4 Ministerial Meetings	123
7.7 From Delhi to the Potsdam Collapse	127
7.8 Conclusion and the Way Forward	131
Chapter 8: Advancing Development in the WTO	139
8.1 Introduction	139
8.2 Developing Countries Reclaim Development
Content of the Doha Round	140
8.3 The WTO Aid for Trade: A Global Partnership
for Development	141