

Essays on Intellectual Property Rights, Innovation, and Technology Transfer

by

Thitima Puttitanun

B.E., Chulalongkorn University, Thailand 1996
M.A., University of California, Santa Barbara, 1997
M.A., University of Colorado, Boulder, 1999

A thesis submitted to the Faculty of the Graduate School of the University of Colorado in partial fulfillment
Of the requirement for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy
Department of Economics

2003

CONTENTS

CHAPTER	Page
1 INTRODUCTION	1
2 INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS AND INNOVATION IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES	5
2.1 Introduction	5
2.2 Theoretical Model	9
2.3 Empirical Analysis	17
2.3.1 Data	17
2.3.2 Model Specification	20
2.3.3 Statistical Results	22
2.4 Conclusion	27
3 INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS AND MULTINATIONAL FIRM'S MODES OF ENTRY	30
3.1 Introduction	30
3.2 Model	34
3.3 Econometrics Methods and Data	44
3.3.1 Econometric Methods	44
3.3.2 Data	48
3.4 Empirical Analysis	52
3.5 Conclusion	64

4	IMPACT OF DIFFERENT IMITATION RISKS ON ENTRY MODES BY MULTINATIONAL FIRMS	66
4.1	Introduction	66
4.2	Econometric Methods and Data	69
4.2.1	Econometric Methods	69
4.2.2	Data	72
4.3	Empirical Analysis	74
4.4	Conclusion	85
5	CONCLUSION	86
	APPENDIX	94
	Appendix A: Countries included in data set used in Chapter 2	94
	Appendix B: Proofs of results in Chapter 3	95
	Appendix C: Industries included in data set used in Chapter 3	99

and 4