Enterprise Resource Planning

Implementation and Management Accounting Change in a Transitional Country by

Ahmed O. Kholeif
Lecturer in Accounting and Auditing, School of Accounting, Finance and Management, University of Essex, UK

Magdy G. Abdel-Kader
Senior Lecturer in Accounting, Brunel Business School, Brunel University, UK and

Michael J. Sherer
Professor in Accounting and Auditing, School of Accounting, Finance and Management, University of Essex, UK
Contents

List of Tables xii
List of Figures xiii
List of Abbreviations xiv
Preface xvi

Chapter 1 Introduction 1
  1.1 Introduction 1
  1.2 Management accounting change and ERP 2
  1.3 Research objectives and questions 5
  1.4 Theoretical framework – selection and justification 6
    1.4.1 The selection of theoretical framework 6
    1.4.2 Justification of selected theoretical framework 9
  1.5 Research methodology and methods 10
  1.6 Egypt as a transitional country and ERP 12
  1.7 The significance of the research 13
  1.8 The structure of the book 15

Chapter 2 Literature Review 17
  2.1 Introduction 17
  2.2 Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) systems 17
    2.2.1 Scope of ERP systems 20
    2.2.2 Life cycle of ERP systems 21
    2.2.3 Benefits and limitations of ERP systems 22
  2.3 ERP and management accounting innovations: opportunities and limitations 22
    2.3.1 Business Process Re-engineering 25
    2.3.2 Total Quality Management and the cost of quality 25
    2.3.3 Activity-based costing and management 26
    2.3.4 Benchmarking 27
    2.3.5 Strategic management accounting and balanced scorecard 28
    2.3.6 Value chain analysis and supply chain management 30
    2.3.7 Theory of constraint and throughput accounting 31
    2.3.8 Just-in-Time systems and materials resource planning 32
2.4 Philosophical and theoretical approaches to management accounting change
2.4.1 Pure approaches 34
2.4.2 Mixing research approaches (Triangulation) 50
2.5 Research issues on ERP and management accounting change
2.5.1 ERP systems as a change agent 51
2.5.2 Empirical evidence on ERP and management accounting change and stability 54
2.5.3 Gaps in literature and research questions 57
2.6 Summary and conclusions 59

Chapter 3 Theoretical Framework 62
3.1 Introduction 62
3.2 Structuration theory: core concepts 62
3.3 Structuration theory and management accounting change and stability
3.3.1 Social change and stability in structuration theory: critical evaluation 67
3.3.2 Structuration theory and management accounting stability 70
3.3.3 Burns and Scapens' institutional framework as an extension of structuration theory to address management accounting change 70
3.4 Structuration theory and information technology 77
3.4.1 IT status in-structuration theory: a critical evaluation 78
3.4.2 IT models in IS literature 79
3.4.3 Structuration theory and empirical evidence on IT in accounting literature 82
3.5 Structuration theory and its extensions: implications for the current study
3.5.1 Structuration theory and the current study 83
3.5.2 IT models in IS literature and their role in the current study 84
3.5.3 New institutional sociology theory and the current study 86
3.5.4 Burns and Scapens' (2000) framework in relation to the current study 87
3.5.5 The theoretical framework and research questions 89
3.6 Conclusion and summary 90
Chapter 4: Research Methodology and Methods

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4.1 Introduction</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.2 Research methodology, theory and research method selection</td>
<td>91</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.3 Case-study method: definition and justification</td>
<td>93</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4 Pilot study</td>
<td>96</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.5 Multiple-case design and site selection</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.6 Data collection methods</td>
<td>101</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.6.1 Design of interview questions and theoretical framework</td>
<td>105</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.7 Limitations of the case-study method</td>
<td>108</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.8 Summary and conclusion</td>
<td>109</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Chapter 5: Background of the Empirical Study:

The Transformation of Extra-Organisational Institutions in Egypt

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5.1 Introduction</td>
<td>111</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2 The privatisation programme and the transformation of extra-organisational institutions governing public sector enterprises</td>
<td>112</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2.1 The privatisation programme</td>
<td>112</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2.2 Background information on state-owned enterprises under study</td>
<td>115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.3 The Industrial Modernisation Programme and the transformation of extra-organisational institutions governing industrial sector enterprises</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.3.1 The Euro-Mediterranean Partnership and the Industrial Modernisation Programme</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.3.2 Background information about government agencies under study: Industrial Modernisation Centre</td>
<td>122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4 State-budget reform programmes and the transformation of extra-organisational institutions governing governmental units</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4.1 The Egyptian Ministry of Finance and state budget reform programmes</td>
<td>126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4.2 Background information about government agencies under study: Egyptian sales tax department</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.5 Conclusion</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Chapter 6  ERP vs. Custom Software and Change (Transformation) and Stability (Continuity) in Management Accounting Rules and Routines

6.1 Introduction 135
6.2 ERP and change and stability in management accounting rules and routines
6.2.1 ERP and management accounting change in IMC as path-dependent processes: action, routines and institutionalisation 136
6.2.2 Comparison of ERP and accounting stability in NEEASAE with ERP and associated accounting change in IMC 150
6.3 Custom software and change and stability in management accounting rules and routines
6.3.1 Custom software and management accounting change in ESTD as a path-dependent process: action, routines and institutionalisation 157
6.3.2 Comparison of custom software and accounting stability in AQF with custom software and associated accounting change in ESTD 181
6.4 Discussion 184
6.5 Conclusion 187

Chapter 7  ERP vs. Custom Software and the Operation of the Dialectic of Control

7.1 Introduction 189
7.2 ERP and the operation of dialectic of control
7.2.1 ERP and the operation of dialectic of control in IMC 190
7.2.2 Comparison of the operation of dialectic of control in NEEASAE and IMC 204
7.3 Custom software and the operation of dialectic of control
7.3.1 Custom software and the operation of dialectic of control in ESTD 213
7.3.2 Comparison of the operation of dialectic of control in AQF and ESTD 222
7.4 Discussion 227
7.4.1 ERP vs. custom software and the dialectic of control at the hierarchical level 227
7.4.2 ERP vs. custom software and the dialectic of control at the professional level 228
7.5 Conclusion 231
Chapter 8  Summary and Conclusions

8.1  Introduction
8.2  Summary of research findings
8.3  Implications and recommendations
8.4  Research contributions to knowledge
8.5  Limitations of research
8.6  Future research opportunities

Appendices

- Appendix 1 - Interview Schedule for Management Accountants
- Appendix 2 - Interview Schedule for Line Managers
- Appendix 3 - Interview Schedule for IT Specialists
- Appendix 4 - Interviewees Background Information
- Appendix 5 - Detailed Empirical Evidence Collected
- Appendix 6 - Important Evidence Related to ESTD
- Appendix 7 - The Privatisation Programme and the Transformation of Extra-Organisational Institutions Governing Public Sector Enterprises
- Appendix 8 - Euro-Mediterranean Partnership, EU-Egypt Association, MEDA Programme and the Industrial Crisis in Egypt
- Appendix 9 - State Budget Reform Programmes and the Transformation of Extra-Organisational Institutions Governing Governmental Units

Bibliography

Index