Entrepreneurship and Small Business Development in Post-Socialist Economies

David Smallbone and Friederike Welter
Contents

List of illustrations x

1 Introduction 1
   Aims of the book in context 1
   The research approach 2
   Methodological perspectives 5
   The rest of the book 8

PART I
Setting the scene 9

2 Entrepreneurship, SME development and the transformation process 11
   Introduction 11
   Processes of market reform 12
   Variation in the pace of transformation 20
   The roles of entrepreneurship and SMEs in the transformation process 24
   Public policy and the development of entrepreneurship 30
   Concluding remarks 37

3 Entrepreneurship in transition economies: a conceptual review 38
   Perspectives on entrepreneurship 38
   Key influences on entrepreneurship in transition conditions 40
   Entrepreneurship from an individual perspective 47
   The embeddedness of entrepreneurship in a transition context 53
   The entrepreneurial process in transition conditions 60
   Outlook 65
PART II
Entrepreneurship and small business development in former Soviet republics

4 Employment in new and small firms: the example of the Russian Federation

Introduction 69
Market reforms and the development of private entrepreneurship 69
Who are the Russian entrepreneurs? 74
Government policies and SME support: the environment for SME development 75
Patterns of employment in small Russian firms 77
Job quality in Russian SMEs 86
Employment relations and human resource issues in Russian SMEs 91
Conclusions 100

5 Coping with adversity: the case of Belarus

Introduction 102
Progress with market reforms 102
Development of the private sector during the transition period 104
Regional variations in SME development 109
Role of government in the development of the private sector and support needs of SMEs 113
Entrepreneurial behaviour and SME strategies in the context of institutional deficiencies 117
Conclusions 127

6 Innovation and entrepreneurship under transition conditions: the example of Ukraine

Introduction 129
Economic development and SMEs during the 1990s 129
Policies to support SME development 134
Patterns of innovation in Ukrainian SMEs 136
Innovation processes in SMEs 146
Innovating in a transition context: towards a market-oriented innovation system? 151
Conclusions 158
PART III
Entrepreneurship and small business development in Central and Eastern Europe 161

7 Poland: entrepreneurship development and EU accession 163

Introduction 163
The development of SMEs in Poland 163
Contemporary characteristics of the SME sector 169
The role of government in SME development 171
Implications of EU accession for Polish SMEs 178
SME development in rural areas 183
Concluding remarks 186

8 From the former Soviet Union to membership of the European Union: the case of Estonia 187

Introduction 187
The context 187
The development of the SME sector 190
An open economy with export-oriented SMEs 194
Developing an institutional framework 197
Government policy and SME development 202
The state of the SME sector at the time of EU accession 207
Conclusions 219

PART IV
The way forward 223

9 Conclusions 225

Diversity of experience along a common path 225
Implications for entrepreneurship theory 227
Entrepreneurship and public policy 231
Final thoughts 235

Appendix: summary of the main research projects referred to in the book 236

Notes 244
Bibliography 248
Index 273