In Tension between Organization and Profession
Professionals in Nordic Public Service

Carola Aili, Lars-Erik Nilsson, Lennart G. Svensson & Pamela Denicolo (eds)
Contents

Tensions – let the doctor give an example
Carola Aili & Lars-Erik Nilsson 7

Discretion, quality and control
The medical profession and National Quality Registries
Lars H. Hansen 15

Management by documents – a risk of de-professionalizing?
Lena Agevall & Karin Jonnergård 33

Talking ‘tools for learning’
Positioning teachers in discourses on information and communication technology
Lars-Erik Nilsson 57

Municipal adult education
Teacher trajectories and clashes of incentives
Ingrid Henning Loeb 83

Role conflicts among treatment assistants
Sandra Jönsson 99

Aspects of professionalism
Collective nursing – personalised teaching?
Joakim Caspersen 115

Head teachers caught in the middle or on top of things?
Marie-Louise Österlind, Pamela Denicolo, Curt R. Johansson 133

From white dress to white collar
A historical perspective on the hospital ward administrator
Calle Rosengren & Mikael Ottosson 155
Dealing with dilemmas
A fundamental task in police work
Lena Agevall & Håkan Jenner

Time-formatives and intermittent work
School and teachers’ work in practice
Carola Aili

Balancing and bridge-building with difficulties ...
Clinical nursing teachers
Sören Augustinsson & Elvi Richard

Uncovering tensions in an intersectoral organization
A mutual exploration among frontline workers
Agneta Abrahamsson

‘Shutting down the network’
System level discretion and teacher discretion in talk about technology
Lars-Erik Nilsson

ICT and pre-school
Teachers’ professional knowledge base
Agneta Ljung-Djärf

Police work between legitimacy and efficiency
Handling the expectations on the role of the police
Rolf Granér

Epilogue: What’s new, Doc?
Old tensions between or new knowledge about tensions between professions and organizations?
Katrin Hjort

References

About the authors

Index