Boreout!
Overcoming workplace demotivation

Philippe Rothlin & Peter Werder

KOGAN PAGE
London and Philadelphia
Contents

Figures and tables ix
About the authors xi
Acknowledgements xiii

Introduction: The world of work in the 21st century: from burnout to boreout 1

1. Boreout: Concept, elements and development 7
   The relationship of boreout to burnout 9
   Element 1: Being understretched 11
   Element 2: Lack of commitment 15
   Element 3: Boredom 18
   Boreout compared with laziness 20
   How does boreout develop? 21

2. Boreout strategies 25
   The compromise strategy 27
   The levelling-out strategy 28
   Strategic obstruction 29
   The briefcase strategy and the home–office link 31
When boreout secretly leads meetings 33
The pseudo-burnout strategy and the uproar strategy 36

3. The boreout paradox
   The ‘Hans in luck’ paradox 39
   The gift paradox 41
   The health paradox 42
   And now: the boreout paradox 43

4. The causes of boreout
   Fun for everyone? 47
   The wrong career choice 48
   The wrong location 51
   The strategies again 52
   Better alternatives to work 54
   Digitalization driving boreout? 55
   Normal, but bad 57

5. The symptoms of boreout
   Can boreout be observed from the outside? 59
   When people suffer inwardly from boreout 64
   And the clients? 68

6. Who is affected – and who isn’t?
   What protects against boreout – hierarchy or possession? 72
   Staff responsibility for boreout 78
   Boreout intensified by desk jobs 80
   Jobs less liable to boreout 81
   Industrialization and specialization: two developments with consequences 85

7. The different phases of boreout
   Five typologies 90

8. Pseudo-solutions do not help
   Laziness is no answer 96
   Checks for boreout? 98
9. Individual responsibility as an instrument against boreout 101

10. Qualitative pay 107
   Work as a mild illness 107
   The elements of qualitative pay 110
   We seek meaning 112
   We value time 120
   We desire money 126
   To summarize 127

Closing thoughts 131

Bibliography 135
Index 137