

ECONOMIC STUDIES
DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS
SCHOOL OF BUSINESS, ECONOMICS AND LAW
UNIVERSITY OF GOTHENBURG
175

93A 129 97X

Individual Preferences, Choices, and Risk Perceptions - Survey Based Evidence

Elina Lampi

UNIVERSITY OF GOTHENBURG

Contents

Abstract
Preface
Summary of the thesis

Paper 1: Money and success – Sibling and birth-order effects on positional concerns

1. Introduction
2. Design of survey
3. Results
 - 3.1. Descriptive statistics of background variables
 - 3.2. Descriptive statistics of the responses on positional concerns
 - 3.3. Positional concern in relation to parents and friends, full sample
 - 3.4. Positional concern in relation to siblings, sub sample
 - 3.5. Birth order and sibling comparison during childhood
 - 3.6. Comparisons between siblings, effects on all reference groups
4. Conclusions

References

Appendix A

Appendix B

Appendix C

Paper 2: Who visits the museums? A comparison between stated preferences and observed effects of entrance fees

1. Introduction
2. The Museum of World Culture
3. The Survey
4. Results
 - 4.1. Results before the entrance fee was introduced
 - 4.2. What actually happened after the introduction of the entrance fee?
 - 4.3. Validity of the CV results
5. Conclusions

References

Appendix A

Paper 3: Do EPA administrators recommend environmental policies that citizens want?

1. Introduction
 2. The choice experiment
 3. Econometric model
 4. Results
 - 4.1. The choice experiment
 - 4.2. The motives and opinions of the EPA administrators
 5. Conclusions
- References

Paper 4: The marginal values of noise disturbance from air traffic: does the time of the day matter?

1. Introduction
 2. Description of Bromma Airport
 3. Design of the choice experiment
 4. Results
 5. Discussions and conclusions
- Appendix A
- References

Paper 5: Age-related risk of female infertility: A comparison between perceived personal and general risks

1. Introduction
 2. Facts of infertility and the actual risk levels
 3. The survey and survey design
 4. Results
 - 4.1. Descriptive statistics
 - 4.2. Perceptions of the general and personal risks of age-related female infertility
 - 4.3. Comparison between stated personal and general risks for other same age women
 - 4.4. Factors behind the difference between the stated general and personal risks
 5. Conclusions and discussion
- References

Appendix A

Paper 6: What do friends and the media tell us? How different information channels affect women's risk perceptions of age-related female infertility

1. Introduction

2. The survey and survey design

3. Results

3.1. Descriptive statistics

3.2. From which sources do women receive information about the general risks of age-related female infertility?

3.3. Stated risks and how different information channels affect women's risk perception

3.4. Who wants to have more information and from what source?

4. Conclusions and discussion

References

Appendix A