

Lowy Institute Paper 24

Into Africa

HOW THE RESOURCE BOOM IS MAKING
SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA MORE IMPORTANT
TO AUSTRALIA

Roger Donnelly • Benjamin Ford

LOWY INSTITUTE
FOR INTERNATIONAL POLICY

Contents

Executive summary	vii
Boxes, tables, figures, maps	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Acronyms	xvi
Preface	xix
Chapter 1: Drivers of the boom	1
Improved African ‘fundamentals’
‘Stronger for longer’ commodity prices
Global savings glut
New Great Game
How the drivers interact
Chapter 2: Dimensions of the boom	39
‘Boom’ no exaggeration
Mining recovers
‘Southern’ investors becoming more important
Summary
Chapter 3: Dimensions of Australian involvement	51
Outdated official data
More recent evidence
Diverse mix of interests
Summary

Chapter 4: Implications for companies and public policy	67
Is the push sustainable?
Implications for Australian companies
Managing risk
Implications for public policy
Conclusions
Appendix 1
Sub-Saharan Africa's resource potential	103
Appendix 2
Benchmarking Sub-Saharan Africa's investment climates	111
Notes	123
Bibliography	137