CHAPTER 2: KEY TRENDS IN THE HEALTHCARE INDUSTRY AND THE NURSING WORKFORCE ........................................ 25
  Overview of the Healthcare System and RN Employment 25
  RN Employment .................................................. 26
  Labor Force Characteristics of RNs 32
    Participation in the Workforce, Hours Worked, and Key Demographic Characteristics 33
    Earnings of Registered Nurses 37
    Educational Preparation 39
  Comparing Key Trends Between RNs and Other Professions 41
  Chapter Summary ............................................... 43
  References ..................................................... 44

CHAPTER 3: A BRIEF PRIMER ON DEMAND AND SUPPLY .......... 45
  The Demand for Labor ........................................ 46
  The Supply of Labor ........................................ 48
  Equilibrium in a Competitive Labor Market .............. 50
  Equilibrium When Multiple Markets Compete for the Same Type of Labor 54
  Labor Market Shortage as Disequilibrium ................. 55
  Chapter Summary ............................................... 56

SECTION TWO: FACTORS THAT INFLUENCE THE DEMAND FOR RNs

CHAPTER 4: THE DEMAND FOR HEALTH CARE AND THE DERIVED DEMAND FOR REGISTERED NURSES ............................ 57
  Society's Demand for Health Care 58
    Changes in the Health, Size, and Age Composition of the Population 59
    Sociocultural Characteristics 62
    Economic Factors 63
    Changes in the Organization of the Healthcare System 66
    Technology .................................................... 69
  Healthcare Organizations' Demand for Registered Nurses 70
    Factors That Determine Organizations' Demand for RNs 71
  Projections of the Future Demand for Nurses .............. 75
    BLS Projections to 2014 ................................... 76
    HRSA's Projections Through 2020 ......................... 78

CHAPTER 5: MANAGED CARE AND THE NURSE LABOR MARKET
Overview of Managed Care
The Impact of Managed Care on the Demand for Registered Nurses
Identifying States That are Early Adopters of Managed Care
Trends in the Employment and Earnings of Nurses in Early Adopter and Laggard States
Trends in the Employment of RNs by Sector in Early Adopter and Laggard States
Chapter Summary
References

SECTION THREE: FACTORS THAT INFLUENCE THE SUPPLY OF RNs
CHAPTER 6: THE SHORT-RUN SUPPLY OF REGISTERED NURSES
Economic and Noneconomic Factors That Determine the Short-Run Supply of RNs
Economic Factors Impacting RNs' Decisions to Participate in the Nurse Labor Market and Number of Hours Worked
Impact of Noneconomic Factors on the Short-Run Labor Supply of RNs
Changes in Hospital RN Employment Associated with RN Wages and Nonwage Income
RN Employment Changes in "Bust" versus "Boom" Years
Recent Changes in RN Employment
Changing Composition of the RN Workforce in the United States
Increasing Proportion of Foreign-Born RNs
An Aging RN Workforce
Chapter Summary
