Financial Sector Reform and the International Integration of China

Edited by Zhongmin Wu

Zhongmin Wu is Reader in Economics, Nottingham Business School, Nottingham Trent University. He served as President of the Chinese Economic Association in the UK during 2007–2008. Zhongmin received his PhD in Economics from the University of Southampton. Recent work has appeared in Regional Studies, Annals of Operations Research, Economics of Planning, Applied Economics, and China Economic Review.
Contents

List of figures xii
List of tables xiii
Notes on contributors xv

Introduction 1
ZHONGMIN WU

PART I
Financial sector reform 9

1 The internationalization of China’s auditing standards: developments and challenges 11
JINYU ZHU AND SIMON S. GAO

Introduction 11
The CPA profession in China 12
The development and characteristics of CAuSs 13
Experiences, lessons and challenges 23
Concluding remarks 25

2 The analysis of collusive behavior by large shareholders and managers after China’s shareholder splitting reforms 28
ZHENXIN WU, XUEFENG ZHANG AND SHUPING WANG

Introduction 28
The collusive root of large shareholders and managers 33
The condition for collusive realization 35
Conclusions 36
3 Corporate bond performance in China and its default spread
XIAOBING FENG, SHARON XIAOWEN LIN AND FENG ZHAO

Introduction 39
Theoretical background 40
Estimation results and analysis 42
Conclusions 49

4 Stock market liberalization and liquidity: firm level evidence from the Chinese market
WEI HUANG

Introduction 51
Literature review 52
Methodology and data 54
Empirical results 57
Conclusion 64

5 Analysis of IPO underpricing and clustering in the Hong Kong equity market
YONGYUAN QIAO

Introduction 68
Structure of the chapter 71
Data 71
Empirical findings 73
Concluding discussion 83

6 China’s RMB exchange rate regime option, capital integration and financial development
PING HE

Introduction 87
Japanese monetary policy review 88
Methodology and theory 90
Data and estimation results 93
Concluding remarks and policy suggestion 98

7 Testing for credit restrictions in Chinese agriculture
XIAOLI LIU

Introduction 102
Background of China’s rural financial market 103
Contents

Framework of theory 104
Empirical strategies 106
Empirical results 113
Summary and conclusion 116

8 Influence of FDI on the financial stability of China 121
PAN SU-KUN

Introduction 121
Literature review 121
Influence of FDI on China's balance of payments 125
Influence of FDI on the exchange rate of RMB 128
Policy suggestions 130
Conclusion 131

9 An analysis of China's derivatives market and accounting for derivatives 134
ZHEN HUANG AND SIMON GAO

Introduction 134
History of China's derivatives market 137
Factors affecting the development of China's derivatives market 139
Recent developments in China's derivatives market 142
Accounting for derivatives in China 144
Conclusion 146

PART II
The international integration of China 149

10 The long-term growth effects of the Olympic Games in Beijing: a theoretical investigation of growth channels of mega-events 151
TOBIAS BIRKENDORF

Introduction 151
Growth determinants and Olympic Games 152
Theoretical modelling 156
Empirical investigation 163
Conclusion 167
11 An empirical analysis of the Chinese move into Africa
MARIO BIGGERI AND MARCO SANFILIPPO

Introduction 170
The 'going out' strategy 171
Evidence and theoretical interpretations 173
Empirical analysis of the determinants of Chinese investment in Africa 178
Empirical results and interpretations 185
Conclusions 189

12 Chinese firms enter Europe: some empirical evidence
CHRISTIAN MILELLI, FRANÇOISE HAY AND YUNNAN SHI

Introduction 198
Theoretical considerations 199
China's FDI on a worldwide and European basis: a broad perspective 202
The analysis at firm's level 205
Main empirical findings 206
Discussion 210

13 The factors limiting the overseas listing of Chinese privately-owned enterprises: the Ningbo case
JIANYING TIAN AND WEIQI SHEN

Introduction 215
Descriptive information for the sample firms 215
Analysis of the factors limiting the overseas listing of privately-owned enterprises 217
Solutions to overcome the present poor situation 221
Conclusion 222

14 China's integration into a global economy: a case of natural economic development or the deliberate outcome of political decisions to re-legitimise the leading role of the CCP?
CHRISTIAN PLOBERGER

Introduction 224
The state as a basic structural variable 225
Changing political space: globalisation and the enduring relevance of the state 226
The elements and characteristics of political legitimacy 228
15 Globalization, North–South industrial location and environmental competition 243
ARSÈNE RIEBER AND THI ANH-DAO TRAN

Introduction 243
The model 244
Ecological dumping, industrial location and global pollution 249
International cooperation on environmental policy 255
Conclusion 257

16 Foreign R&D spillovers and total factor productivity in the East Asian manufacturing industry 263
HAILIN LIAO, XIAOHUI LIU AND TOM WEYMAN-JONES

Introduction 263
Literature review 264
The empirical framework 266
Data and variables 269
Estimation results 271
Concluding remarks 278

Index 288