The Applicability of the Energy Charter Treaty in ICSID Arbitration of EU Nationals vs. EU Member States

By

Christian Tietje

Institute of Economic Law
Transnational Economic Law Research Center (TELC)
School of Law
Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg
TABLE OF CONTENTS

A. Introduction ............................................................................................................. 5

B. The Applicable Law Concerning Admissibility and Merits of ICSID Proceedings ................................................................. 5

C. The Public International Status of the ECT towards the EC and its Member States ............................................................ 7
   I. General Aspects Concerning the Legally-binding Effects of Mixed Agreements under Public International Law .................... 8
   II. Exemptions to the Comprehensive Binding Effects regarding Mixed Agreements ............................................................. 9
       1. Limitations of the Legally-Binding Inter Se Relationship as a Result of Explicit and Implicit ECT Standards? ................ 10
          a) Explicit Statutory Provisions of the ECT .................................................................................................................. 10
          b) Implied Inter Se Modification? ................................................................................................................................. 12
          c) Intermediate Conclusion ........................................................................................................................................ 13
       2. ECT Part III and V as Competencies of EU Member States .................................................................................. 14
   III. The Particular Problem of Conflicting Jurisdiction in the Sense of Art. 292 EC .................................................................. 15
   IV. Irrelevance of Art. 307 EC ................................................................................. 16

D. Non-Applicability of EC Law as Lex Arbitri or Ordre Public in an ECT/ICSID Proceeding .......................................................... 16

E. Conclusion .............................................................................................................. 17

References .................................................................................................................. 18