CONTENTS

List of figures and tables  ix
List of acronyms  xi
Preface  xv

Introduction  1
Two vignettes  1
Outline of this book  3

1 Trade unionism in the postwar boom, 1945–67  6
The postwar upsurge  6
The 1950s retreat  12
The working-class revival of the 1960s  22
On the verge of a breakthrough  38

Part I The flood tide, 1968–74  39

2 The union upsurge, 1968–74  41
The breakthrough, 1968–69  41
The flood tide gathers force, 1969–74  45
Gains from the flood tide  62
The Labor ascendancy, 1972–74  67
Conclusion  70

Part 2 The stand-off, 1974–83  73

3 Economic crisis and the halting of the flood tide, 1974–75  75
The onset of economic crisis  75
Business goes on the attack  76
vi Contents

Union responses to the crisis 81
Unions and the Kerr Coup 88

4 Unionism in the Fraser years 95
   A period of retreat, 1976–78 96
   Union recovery, 1978–81 109
   The end of the Fraser Government and the emergence of the Accord 114

Part 3  The ebb tide, 1983–2007 123

5 The ALP–ACTU Accord, 1983–90 125
   The early years of the Accord, 1983–86 126
   The rise of productivity trade-offs, 1987–90 145
   The position of trade unions by 1990 154
   The 1990 federal election 157

6 Enterprise bargaining and a revived employer offensive, 1990–96 159
   A new phase in the productivity revolution 160
   Working-class resistance 170
   The two faces of unionism 174
   The 1996 election and the end of the Accord 178

7 Unionism in a cold climate, 1996–2004 181
   Workers and their unions in 1996 181
   Two early clashes 184
   The anti-union offensive continues 198
   Union efforts to reverse decline 201

8 WorkChoices and the defeat of the Howard Government 210
   WorkChoices 210
   The ‘Your Rights at Work’ campaign 218
   The 2007 federal election 233

9 Results and prospects 239
   Australian unionism from flood to ebb tide: a summary of the argument 239
Contents

The challenge facing the unions 244
Prospects for revival 246

Notes 253
Index 275