The Buddha, The Peerless Economist

People-friendly Buddhist Economics
Preface

Chapter 1 - Introduction
1.1 Can Economics be a Positive Science? 15
1.2 People’s Economics. 31
1.3 Brief Review of the Evolution of Modern Scientific Economics 36
1.4 Buddhism: A Departure from “Self-Interest Only” 47
1.5 Introducing Altruist Economics. 52
1.6 Arguments Against Self Interest Approach in Economics. 54
1.7 The Buddhist concept of Society and Property 63

Chapter 2 - Smith’s exposition is unrealistic
2.1 Injurious Self-seeking System. 70
2.2 Rational Behaviour - Crux of the problem 74
2.3 Environmental Degradation & Buddhism 80
2.4 Contradictions in Modern Economic Thinking - Critique of Adam Smith’s Model. 97
2.5 A chain of followers of self-seeking economic approach 104
2.6 Raison d’être of Buddhist Economics. 110

Chapter 3 - Selfishness Vs Brahmavihara
3.1 Brahmavihara Concepts 133

Chapter 4 - Brahmavihara Theory of the firm
4.1 Traditional Theory of firm 153

Chapter 5 - Buddhist Economic Analysis and Models
5.1 Operation of Rational Behaviour 163
5.2 Uniqueness of Buddhist Economics 172
5.3 Muditha Model of Accumulation of Wealth 186
5.4 Globalization and International Financial Institution 204
5.5 Santutti- the optimal level of welfare 216

Chapter 6 - Aspects of Buddhist Economic Development
6.1 Pillars of Buddhist Economic Development 219
6.2 Worldly Satisfaction- Sukha 230
6.3 Incentives for Motivation 234
6.4 Objectives of People-Friendly Economics 242
6.5 Modern views of Socio-Economic Development 249
6.6 People-Friendly Approach 262
6.7 Basic needs in life 266

Chapter 7 - Paradigm Shift in Economic Development
7.1 Economic Development - A New Definition 280
7.2 Alternative methods of Project Evaluation 292

Chapter 8 - The Buddha on Terrorism
8.1 Definition of terrorism 306
8.2 Buddhist Attitude towards Terrorism 316

Chapter 9 - Conclusion
9.1 Conclusion. 322
9.2 Summary 328

List of Figures
Figure 1 - Bargaining between a strong person & a weak person 95
Figure 2 - Equilibrium of the firm 150
Figure 3 - Movement of satisfaction with the accumulation of wealth 193
Figure 4 - Santutti 217