Mobile Living Across Europe II
Causes and Consequences of Job-Related Spatial Mobility in Cross-National Comparison
Outline

1 Introduction: Job-Related Spatial Mobility in Contemporary European Societies ................................................. 15
   Ruth Limmer, Beate Collet & Silvia Ruppenthal

2 Research Design .................................................................................................................................................. 25
   Philippe Huynen, Michel Hubert & Detlev Lück

Understanding Mobilities

3 Insights into Mobile Living: Spread, Appearances and Characteristics ................................................................. 37
   Detlev Lück & Silvia Ruppenthal

4 Advantages and Disadvantages of Job-Related Spatial Mobility ................................................................. 69
   Heiko Rüger & Silvia Ruppenthal

5 Motility .............................................................................................................................................................. 95
   Vincent Kaufmann, Gil Viry & Eric D. Widmer

6 The Process of Becoming Mobile .......................................................................................................................... 113
   Eric D. Widmer, Gil Viry & Vincent Kaufmann

7 Individual Legitimacy of Mobility Culture ....................................................................................................... 131
   Julien Piérart, Bertrand Montulet, Philippe Huynen & Michel Hubert

Social Structures and Mobilities

8 Early Life Course Relocation: Effects on Motility, Mobility and Social Integration ........................................... 153
   Gil Viry, Heather Hofmeister & Eric Widmer

9 Gender and Job Mobility .................................................................................................................................... 173
   Beate Collet & Andrea Dauber

10 Social Class and Job Mobilities. Human Capital, External Constraints and Mobility Framing .......................... 195
   Anna Giza-Poleszczuk, Magdalena Stec, Agata Komendant & Heiko Rüger
Mobilities in Private and Professional Life

11 Job Mobility and Family Life ................................................................. 215
Gerardo Meil

12 Local Attachment and Family and Friendship Ties Put to the
Mobility Test ......................................................................................... 237
Estelle Bonnet & Beate Collet

13 Job Mobilities and Quality of Life .................................................... 263
Ruth Limmer & Heiko Rüger

14 Job Careers and Job Mobility ........................................................... 289
Estelle Bonnet & Renaud Orain

15 Support for Job Mobile People and Their Adaptation to Mobility..... 317
Gerardo Meil, Luis Ayuso & Ramón Mahia

16 Job Mobilities in Europe: Core Findings, Policy Implications and
Future Outlook .................................................................................... 337
Heather Hofmeister & Norbert F. Schneider
Table of Contents

1 Introduction: Job-Related Spatial Mobility in Contemporary European Societies
   Ruth Limmer, Beate Collet & Silvia Ruppenthal
   1.1 Mobility – A Feature of the Modern World .............................. 15
   1.2 Our Definition of Mobility ............................................... 17
   1.3 Aims of Our Investigations and Contents of the Book ............... 20

2 Research Design ...................................................................... 25
   Philippe Huynen, Michel Hubert & Detlev Lück
   2.1 Mobility Types and Target Population ................................. 25
   2.2 The Common Questionnaire .............................................. 26
   2.3 The Survey Method and Sampling Procedure ....................... 27
   2.4 The Fieldwork ................................................................... 27
   2.5 Standardised Post-Coding .................................................. 28
   2.6 Characteristics of the Samples and Weighting on the National Level ........................................... 29
   2.7 Weighting on the European Level ...................................... 31

3 Insights into Mobile Living: Spread, Appearances and Characteristics ..37
   Detlev Lück & Silvia Ruppenthal
   3.1 The Spread and Relevance of Job Mobility in Europe ............ 38
      3.1.1 Current and Past Mobility Experiences in Europe .......... 38
      3.1.2 Job Mobility from a Couple-Perspective ....................... 40
      3.1.3 Willingness to Be(come) Mobile ................................. 42
      3.1.4 Trends in Job Mobility ............................................... 45
   3.2 Variation and Appearances of Being Mobile ....................... 46
      3.2.1 Recurring and Residential Mobility ............................. 46
      3.2.2 A Differentiated Typology ........................................... 48
      3.2.3 Mobile Lifestyles in Various Mobility Forms ................ 49
   3.3 The Characteristics of Mobile People .................................. 58
      3.3.1 Demographic Characteristics ...................................... 58
      3.3.2 Family Context ....................................................... 60
      3.3.3 Employment Situation .............................................. 61
      3.3.4 Differences according to Socio-Economic Characteristics ..63
   3.4 Conclusion ...................................................................... 64
8 Early Life Course Relocation: Effects on Motility, Mobility and Social Integration

Gil Viry, Heather Hofmeister & Eric Widmer

8.1 Mobility as a Life Course Issue .............................................. 154
8.1.1 Spatial Mobility and Cumulative Effects ................................. 155
8.1.2 Summary ........................................................................... 156
8.2 Past Relocation Trajectories: Lasting Effects on Current Motility, Mobility and Friendship Network ........................................... 156
8.2.1 Types of Relocation Sequences .............................................. 157
8.2.2 The Social Embeddedness of Relocation-Trajectories .......... 160
8.2.3 The Effects of Mobility Trajectories on Current Motility, Mobility and Friendship Networks .................. 164
8.2.4 Relocation Trajectories in International Comparison ........... 167
8.3 Conclusion ............................................................................ 167

9 Gender and Job Mobility ................................................................ 173
Beate Collet & Andrea Dauber

9.1 Gender Differences with Regard to Job Mobility in Europe .......... 176
9.1.1 Who is More Mobile? ............................................................. 177
9.1.2 Do Men and Women Choose Different Mobility Forms? ............. 180
9.1.3 Does Job Mobility Have Different Consequences for Men and Women? ................................................................. 185
9.2 Differences between Mobile Women and Mobile Men ................. 187
9.3 Conclusion ............................................................................ 190

10 Social Class and Job Mobilities. Human Capital, External Constraints and Mobility Framing ................................................. 195
Anna Giza-Poleszczuk, Magdalena Stec, Agata Komendant & Heiko Rüger

10.1 Theoretical Background and Main Concepts ................................ 196
10.2 Results .................................................................................. 199
10.2.1 Personal and External Constraints ......................................... 200
10.2.2 Mobility as a Private vs. Organisational Issue ....................... 203
10.2.3 Spatial and Social Mobility .................................................... 210
10.3 Conclusion ............................................................................ 211

11 Job Mobility and Family Life ......................................................... 215
Gerardo Meil

11.1 Job Mobility and the Formation of a Partnership ....................... 215
11.2 Family Formation and Job Mobility ........................................... 217
14 Job Careers and Job Mobility.................................................................289
Estelle Bonnet & Renaud Orain
14.1 A Relationship to Mobility that Varies according to the Objective Situation of the Job.............................................................290
14.1.1 Work Situations and Features of Mobile Employment.. 291
14.1.2 Geographically Mobile Employment and
Labour Organisation .........................................................................296
14.2 How Mobiles Assess the Job Market and Factors that Might Impact their Careers .................................................................300
14.2.1 Mobiles and the Labour Market...............................................301
14.2.2 Professional Geographic Mobility: Choice or Obligation?.306
14.2.3 Geographic Mobility and the Perception of Career Opportunities .........................................................................310
14.3 Conclusion: Different Impact of Work Situations on Job-Related Spatial Mobility ..............................................................313

15 Support for Job Mobile People and Their Adaptation to Mobility.....317
Gerardo Meil, Luis Ayuso & Ramón Mahia
15.1 Support for Mobility by the Employer............................................318
15.2 The Effects of Support Measures on the Quality of Life of Mobile Employees ................................................................325
15.3 Support Measures and Adaptation to Job Mobile Life .................328
15.4 Demands for Improving the Work-Life Balance.........................330
15.5 Conclusion ..................................................................................334

16 Job Mobilities in Europe: Core Findings, Policy Implications and
Future Outlook ..................................................................................337
Heather Hofmeister & Norbert F. Schneider
16.1 European Union Goals ..................................................................338
16.1.1 Mobility ..................................................................................338
16.1.2 Gender Equality .......................................................................338
16.1.3 Social Cohesion .......................................................................339
16.1.4 Fertility ....................................................................................339
16.1.5 Environmental Protection ........................................................340
16.2 Results of the Job Mobility and Family Lives Study....................340
16.2.1 The Phenomenon of Mobility in Europe: Patterns,
Expectations and Trends .................................................................340
16.2.2 Stratifying Processes: Social Class, Life Course and
Gender Dimensions of Mobility .......................................................344
16.2.3 Mobility in the Private and Professional Sphere .................346
16.3 Policy Implications and Private Strategies ..................................351
16.4 Future Perspectives ....................................................................353